Section 11 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of its provisions shall be held unconstitutional the decision of the court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of the act It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included herein

Section 12 That an act approved the twentieth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws one thousand twenty-one) entitled "An act imposing a State tax on gasoline and on all other liquids containing any derivative of petroleum or natural gas produced prepared or compounded or useable for the purpose of generating power by means of internal combustion and sold in this Commonwealth except for the purpose of resale providing for the collection of such tax and for the distribution and use of revenues derived therefrom making an appropriation and fixing penalties" is hereby repealed Provided That nothing herein contained shall be taken or construed to relieve any person or persons co-partnership association company or corporation whatsoever from the payment of any tax interest or penalty due or owing to the Commonwealth under any law in force at the time this act becomes effective

Section 13 This act shall become effective on the first day of July Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred twenty-three

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I would like to explain briefly to the members of the Senate in regard to this bill, House Bill 1256 on the Calendar. It is marked Henderson Bill. As a matter of fact it should be Anderson Bill. The bill which failed a few moments ago, at the top of page 2 1020 is marked the Henderson Bill. It should be the Baldwin bill. Some of the Senators in voting thought when they voted on Senate Bill 1020 they were voting on the gasoline tax bill. I want to say that that is not the gasoline tax bill, the bill that we are considering now, 1256 is the gasoline tax bill, a revenue measure that will raise, as we estimate, at least seven million dollars during the biennium. Now in this bill is included the Act of 1921, which the Whiteman bill, which was on the Calendar, was supposed to amend. This bill repeals that act and the Committee found in passing the Whiteman bill that it could not accomplish anything because the act which was amended would be repealed by the passage of the Henderson Bill. The Henderson bill provides, among other things, a different method of collecting gasoline tax. It provides that dealers shall report quarterly to the Auditor General's Department, they shall give the names and the addresses of the people that they sell gasoline to, which will expedite the collection of the tax and which will be effectual in getting a lot of the so called taxes that have not been paid. This bill includes the one cent gasoline tax that was passed in 1921; it also includes,————

and the members of the Senate should remember this,—that this tax is marked an emergency tax and only lasts until the thirtieth of June nineteen twenty-five, or two years, then that tax ends.

Now I know gentlemen, that no form of tax is popular. I know that the gasoline tax affects more than a million of people in our State. Most everbody has to pay the tax, but if we are going on with the program of education to take care of our educational institutions, hospitals, roads and other work that has been agreed upon by everybody, more revenue has to be raised. The bill that we passed last night, the net profits bill, would raise a certain amount of these additional revenues, and this bill will raise seven million more. The bill which you have just voted down, No. 1020, is a companion bill of this bill and merely defines what terms "liquid fuel" means and makes certain exceptions, and I want to say to the members of the Senate that if you pass this bill, 1256, by all means you should reconsider and pass Senate bill 1020, because it makes these exceptions that it shall not apply to kerosene fuel oil and gas oil.

These bills, I want to say, the gasoline people, the Atlantic Refining Company and others, several weeks ago were here and with the Auditor General, who was looking for a better method of collecting the gasoline, have agreed upon Senate bill 1256 and they also agreed upon its companion bill, which provides for the exceptions of kerosene and gasoline oil and fuel oil. Those people, spent considerable time, with their general counsel, with Attorney General Brown and Mr. Evans of this city, and they are all agreed that the measure in its present form is agreeable to them and if we in the closing hours of this session are going to have the revenues that we need it will be necessary to pass House bill 1256.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Potter, Mr. Baldwin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Potter, Mr. Baldwin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, do I understand by those statements that the gasoline people, representing all these large refineries, agreed on this tax?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I mean to say that they did, that they agreed upon the Henderson bill and agreed upon the companion bill 1020.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, did they agree as to the amount of tax?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, when the bills were proposed the amount of tax was the same as it is to-day.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, the point I desire to ask the Senator about, I am speaking about the tax, about the method of collecting. I want to know from the Senator, as Chairman of the Committee, have all these organizations and corporations in Delaware, New Jersey, West Virginia and Maryland agree upon this tax?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, they agreed upon the method of collecting the tax and upon the bills at that time. This change has been made since. We have included the act of 1921 and the Henderson Act, which we were obliged to do because one act repealed the other.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, that is the supervision of making reports and collecting the money under the present act?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, yes, and to extend it to certain people that were not collected from previous to that time.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, but not to increase the tax?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I think not.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Potter, Mr. Baldwin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Potter, Mr. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, what is the increase?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, in answer to the question of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Daix, this bill increases the gasoline tax by an emergency one cent tax on gasoline and the other liquid fuels that are mentioned in the definition in Senate Bill No. 1020.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, if this bill goes through and the increase takes place that entire revenue will go to educational purposes?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, the entire revenue goes to the state treasury, with the exception that in the Act of 1921 one half of the one cent tax went to the counties and the other one-half to the state treasury.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, does not that go toward educational purposes?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Potter, Mr. Baldwin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Potter, Mr. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, my understanding of this bill is that if this bill is passed it adds one cent additional to the gasoline tax.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, yes.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, also on the other hand, if this bill is defeated it not only defeats the one cent but also repeals the Act of 1921.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, no, if this bill falls we will have left the Act of 1921, the old bill.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate: I represent a constitutency that is, perhaps, as much opposed to additional burdens of taxation as any constitutency in the State of Pennsylvania, but there is no use in fooling ourselves. We are here for the purpose of serving the best interests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We have had this tax problem under consideration and discussed it since the beginning of the session and there has been almost every subject mentioned that was the logical subject of taxation. Nobody wants additional taxes, but finally, in what might be termed, perhaps, a gentleman's agreement, it was determined that we would, as a compromise, try to enact into law the net profits tax, which has been spoken of, and the one cent additional tax on gasoline, to give to the state which in the judgment of the Finance Committee of the Senate would raise approximately twenty million dollars, the amount of money necessary for the state to properly function during the next biennium. Now, gentlemen of the Senate, you may assume the responsibility of defeating this measure, if you will, but if you do, in my judgment, you absolutely make it necessary for the Governor of the Commonwealth to reassemble the legislature in extra session for the purpose of providing sufficient revenue to have the state function during the next two years. I for one am not willing to assume that responsibility. I, therefore, mean to carry out to the extent of my ability the so-called gentlemen's agreement to which I referred and endeavor to raise the twenty million dollars that appears to be necessary for the state to properly function. I think that you all want to consider that matter in voting on this bill. If you vote this bill down then we further complicate our legislative proceeding and if anything comes out of it, which probably cannot, it will force, in my judgment, the Governor of the Commonwealth to reassemble the legislature in extra session for the purpose of raising revenues to which I have already referred.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I do not propose at this late stage in the session to take up the time of the Senate by making a long speech. I indicated to the Senate some weeks ago, in some remarks made upon the floor of the Senate, that I would take the opportunity of voting against the lump-sum provisions of the Governor's budget, and since I find those lump-sum provisions contained in this bill I must vote against it. I think my reasons for opposition to the lump-sum provision of the budget are more or less clearly understood, and I do not wish to worry you by taking the time to spread them upon the record now. However, I want to make this clear, that I am heartily in favor of a budget system in the administration of the financial affairs in this state. I understand a budget to be an itemized statement of contemplated expenditures, and this budget is not that, but rather an ill-advised and elastic conglomeration of lump-sum appropriations. There can only be two reasons why we have this lump-sum of budget appropriations given and naming them a budget, one is that the Executive Department does not know what they are going to do with the money, and if that is true it is reprehensible; the other, if they do know, they do not want us to know, and that is more reprehensible. Mr. President, Iam unwilling to go back home and say to my constituents that I voted to expend nearly one hundred million dollars of the state's money and that I do not have any idea of what is to be done with it. For that reason I expect to cast my vote "no" without further explanation.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 697, (House Bill No. 857) on third reading, entitled:

An Act providing for the lapsing of unexpended or unencumbered balances of appropriations go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SISSON. Mr. President, what does the Senator mean by "going over in its order"? How long does he want it to go over?

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I want to ascertain something about the bill. This House Bill 867 provides for the lapsing of unincumbered balances of appropriations. I want to know, if any member of the Senate can explain, just what this bill does do.

Mr. SISSON. Mr. President, I think I can.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears no objection.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 807, (House Bill No. 73), entitled:

An Act to amend section one article six chapter seven of an act approved the fourteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 312) entitled "Providing a system of government for boroughs and revising amending and consolidatin the law relating to boroughs" as amended

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 810, (House Bill No. 316), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section three hundred and seven of an act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred thirty-six) entitled "An Act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder" as amended go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Miller.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Miller, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I would ask the Senator from Crawford to explain the bill.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, this bill provides that funeral exense money shall be paid direct to the undertaker instead of paying it to a member of the family. It is not a compensation bill, it is merely a matter of routine.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Miller.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Miller, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, suppose the funeral expenses would be less than the amount designated.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, can you imagine the funeral expenses being less than one hundred dollars?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, the bill now provides for one hundred and fifty dollars under the compensation act. This bill provides that that money must be paid to the undertaker. Suppose it would be less than one hundred and fifty dollars.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, this bill was drawn before the present compensation act was passed and provides for the payment of one hundred dollars. The fact of the matter is frequently the undertaker does not get the money and he renders the services at his own expense. This bill provides that the money shall be paid by the compensation insurance company direct to him instead of to a member of the family.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, this legislation makes the State of Pennsylvania a collection agency and questions the integrity of the family that is supposed to receive this compensation.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, the act simply provides for the routine.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, it seems to me that this bill rather questions the integrity of the family. So far as I am concerned I doubt the wisdom of the Senate making itself directly or indirectly a collection agency for undertakers, much as I regard them as a necessity.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I have no personal interest in this bill except that the sponsor is one of my conferees in the House and I promised him that I would take care of the bill and explain it, if necessary to the Senate. That is as far as my interest in the bill goes. I think my obligation to the Member of the House has been fulfilled. I objected to its being put over in order.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, may I ask the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee to explain this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, with the permission of the interrogater I yield to the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Craig.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Craig permit himself to the interrogated?

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I shall be glad to explain the bill. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, is informed that there is a State project under way in the western end of the State which provides for the conservation of the waters in Pymatuning Swamp, which is a very large acreage of land situated in Senator Miller's district. This land is covered with water and is practically worthless. Some years ago the State undertook to erect a dam and make a reservoir of that swamp in order that the water might be conserved during the rainy season and used during the dry season to supply water to the Mahoning, Shenango and Beaver rivers. It is a matter of the highest importance to the entire western tier of counties, and local people who are interested in the project have raised the money to buy the land, both in Pennsylvania and the State of Ohio, necessary for the construction of this reservoir. The State, many years ago, agreed to build a dam and appropriated the sum of four hundred thousand dollars at that time. The dam, however, has never been constructed. Now the land has been purchased, the proceedings of condemnation of what was necessary have been gone through with, the surveys have been made, and part of the improvements on the land. This appropriation is to enable a continuance of that project. I might say to the Senator that this appropriation, all of it, will be required during the next biennium, and it is necessary to continue the work and the passage of this bill for that reason is necessary. The House has passed it and we are being asked to do so.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I do not want to delay the adjournment of this session, but I would like to add a word to what has been said by the Senator from Beaver in reference to this bill, and coming from me it may be taken as somewhat disinterested, for I come the far east, whereas he represents the western part of the State. Back in the Sessions of 1915 and 1917 this project was brought before the Appropriations Committee, of which I had the honor of being Chairman at that time, and I, in company with the then Chairman of the House Committee, went out to this part of the State and went all through this swamp, or rather so much of it as could be gone through with safety to human life, and we made a complete study of the whole project and it was during that period that the project received its first endorsement by the legislature of Pennsylvania and this appropriation is to carry on the work which was started at that time. It is a large project; it will take probably a great many years to accomplish it, but it is a very vital matter to the entire western part of the State, as the Senator from Beaver has said, and I hope the Senate at this time will approve of this appropriation.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1553, (House Bill No. 946), entitled:

An Act providing that in certain cases it shall not be a defense in an action against a corporation on a negotiable instrument issued or indorsed in its name to prove that it was issued or indorsed by an officer or officers thereof contrary to the by-laws of said corporation

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I am not a lawyer and therefore cannot intelligently read, perhaps, the bills that are entirely a legal matter and I would be glad to have an explanation of the bill under consideration.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, as I understand this bill it is a bill for the protection of banks or other persons or corporations buying negotiable instruments or negotiable paper. It is, I take it, to take the place of the bill which was defeated in this chamber a few weeks ago relating to the bylaws of corporations. Under the present laws of this state, as handed down by the Supreme Court it is held that notwithstanding the purchaser of negotiable paper may be an innocent purchaser for value yet if that negotiable paper has been executed by officers of a corporation, who, under the bylaws of that corporation did not have authority to execute such negotiable paper that then the negotiable paper is not good and the banks or trust companies, or whoever may buy the negotiable paper, can collect these notes. It is to correct that situation that this bill is proposed. There has been a decision of the Supreme Court very recently, which was referred to in this paper a few weeks ago on the other bill, which has held that the bylaws of a corporation govern with reference to the signing of negotiable paper, the same as in all other matters, and as I view this bill and understand it it is a bill to correct that situation and I can see no objection whatever to its passage.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator whether it is not a fact, if this bill would become a law, that any officer of a corporation could bankrupt the corporation by passing forged notes, unauthorized notes, which the corporation would have to pay, notwithstanding the lack of authority in the official issuing them.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I do not think it would apply to forged instruments, for a forged instrument is a nullity.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, let me say unauthorized, floating notes and taking the money.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in answer to that question I would say that possibly it would have that effect, but we cannot protect against dishonesty in matters of that kind. The officer who did such a thing would be guilty, probably, of a criminal offense, but as I view this bill it is an act to protect innocent purchasers of negotiable paper for value. They have no way of knowing what the by-laws of a corporation may or may not provide and it is to correct that situation that this bill is proposed. I might say that since I started this speech one of the other Senators has handed me a letter from a member of the Law Association of Philadelphia, Mr. A. H. Wintersteen, who is a well-known corporation lawyer of the City of Philadelphia, endorsing this bill.

Mr. LONG. Mr. President, I do not understand this bill quite in the same light as the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman. This bill was intended to protect a man who has gotten hold of an instrument of the kind that is designated here, with knowledge perhaps that the by-laws of a corporation have been violated, that the man who signed the instrument had no authority to do it, and who gets the note from some person who got it perhaps innocently, that he when he purchased the note knew that it had been signed in violation of the by-laws. It says in the bill, speaking of these instruments, "the instrument was negotiated to such party and notwithstanding that the party suing had notice of the provisions of such by-laws at the time the instrument was negotiated to him." Still he may maintain his suit, whether he purchased his instrument and knows, and this law authorizes him, then, to bring suit, to pass it along in that way. It seems to me this is a bad piece of legislation and might result in very serious harm.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Bucks whether banking institutions do not at this time have all of the power or all of the safety necessary by insisting upon a certified copy of a resolution authorizing the borrowing of funds from corporations when such necessity arises.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, they could, of course, do that, but that would not clear the situation where negotiable instruments are brought on the market, especially country banks in these days buy negotiable paper from negotiable instrument brokers. The paper may come from any part of the United States and it is impracticable in many cases, practically impossible, to insist upon a certified copy of a resolution in such matters.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, is not that a chance then, that a man takes? Do not they have all the safety if they care to exercise it? As a member of a Board of Directors having necessity to borrow money in many instances I know we have been asked to have a certified resolution of our authority with the negotiable paper offered.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, probably by reason of this decision of the Supreme Court, banks are requiring certified copies, and I think that this bill would do away with the necessity of going through that routine.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, it is not a very great hardship for a corporation to go through that routine if they need the money badly and are requested to do it by the banks, and it seems to me, as my mind can see this, that it is giving very great opportunities for a corporation to be bankrupted by some dishonest official of the corporation to negotiate paper without the authority of the corporation and that the banks now have such security as is necessary to save them from any loss that might occur.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. President, the purpose as explained for which this bill was drawn might be gathered as a purpose without danger, perhaps, were it not for the provision in the bill providing that notwithstanding the person purchasing this note might have knowledge. It seems to me that the bill as it stands is dangerous and it should be amended. I realize that the time for this amendment is not now, and that the bill must be defeated unless we are to enact into law a bill that clearly provides a way for collusion, for the fleecing of innocent corporations, and I have knowledge of banking customs in the State of Pennsylvania for many years, and know that banks, well-managed institutions, as a rule, require proper certificates giving knowledge to them in regard to the execution of negotiable instruments, and it seems to me that it is due banks that they take this precaution and that such information is readily available upon their request, and, therefore, I would regret very much to see this Senate pass an act of this kind which opens the door to roguery and opens the way for things that should not be allowed.

Mr. STITES. Mr. President, This bill was introduced by Mr. Ludlow, of my district, at the suggestion of the Law Association of Philadelphia. The Law Association of Philadelphia, through its Legislative Committee, considered the recommendation of Mr. Justice Kephart in the case of Putman vs. The Ensign Oil Co., 272 Pa. In Putman vs. The Ensign Oil Co., 272 Pa. 301, the Supreme Court, speaking by Mr. Justice Kephart, called attention to the almost exceptional position among the states of the rule of law prevailing in Pennsylvania, that the by-laws of a corporation are written into the charter, defining and limiting the rights, duties and powers of its officers, and putting persons dealing with the corporation on notice as to the extent of the officers' power and agency, actual knowledge of the existence of the by-laws being immaterial.

"After noting that, with respect to commercial paper, the above rule has been modified in certain classes of situations, the Court suggested that, with a view to harmonizing our law with the law to other jurisdictions where commercial paper transactions are involved, and in order to make free the channels of circulation of such paper, the law as established by the previous decisions of our courts be modified by statute making corporation by-laws of no binding effect on persons taking their promissory notes without notice or knowledge of the contents of a by-law or by-laws contrary to which the paper may have been issued. The specific suggestion of the Court is contained in the following language, at page 310 (272 Pa.): 'It would seem advisable for the law to be, as suggested in other state, that where a note has been signed in the regular way by corporate officers, as, for instance, by the president and secretary, or president and treasurer, or endorsed by the treasurer, such note in the hands of any holder in due course, or one with those rights, should be good as against the corporation, notwithstanding any by-law to the contrary, unless previous knowledge of the existence of such by-law is brought home to the holder.' "

Now I take it that the purpose of this bill is to bring the laws of Pennsylvania in accordance with the laws of practically all other states on the subject of responsibility of corporation officers and the responsibility of corporations as the result of the action of their officers, feeling no doubt that the corporation ought to suffer for the misdeeds of its officers rather than innocent purchasers of notes for value, who deal with those officers in the full faith and credit that they represent the real actions and desires of the corporation.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, I regard this as an extremely dangerous bill. As one engaged in banking and one interested in corporations I feel that a dishonest officer of a corporation, by the issuing of notes unauthorized, could bankrupt that corporation. I hope the Senate will vote this bill down.

Mr. SISSON. Mr. President, it seems to me this is a reasonable and fair bill for many citizens of the Commonwealth dealing one with another. The banks are doing business with the public through its officers handling its money, issuing its paper and transacting business with the public generally. Now if that bank has a by-law prohibiting its officers from endorsing paper or doing such things, the bank knows that the public does not know, the stranger dealing with the officer of the bank as he deals with the average citizen, meets him and is with him, assuming that the bank authorizes him to do it and has put him out before the public doing the business with the bank. Now then, to say that if that officer of the bank is not honest and does not transact the business honestly and fairly that the public has to take responsibility and not the bank, I think the bank ought to be held for the conduct of its officers in dealing with the public and if that officer cheats the public through the exercise of authority that the bank has given him, the banks know that they are liable for that sum and that they are responsible for what their officers do and send them out before the public in that light. Therefore, it seems to me as though this is a reasonable and fair proposition.

RESOLUTION ON DEATH OF DOCTOR JOSEPH KRAUSKROPF.

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, June 13, 1923.

Whereas, Doctor Joseph Krauskropf of Philadelphia, noted educator, humanitarian, founder of the National Farm School at Doylestown, and Rabbi of the Keneseth Israel Temple at Philadelphia, died on the twelfth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and

Whereas, It is fitting and proper that this General Assembly should pause for a moment in its labors and contemplate the passing of this eminent American, whose life has made an indelible impress upon the Commonwealth, and

Whereas, When the stream of immigration of Russian Jewish refugess from the pogrom-stricken steppes was at its height, in one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, Dr. Joseph Krauskropf, went into the Pale in Russia to study the plight of his co-religionists, and made a tour of the agricultural colonies there, and

Whereas, He was so strongly impressed by the Jewish Agricultural School at Odessa and its results, that upon his return he founded the National Farm School at Doylestown, one of the largest institutions of its kind in America today, and a monument to his memory, and has been its president from the day of its foundation, and

Whereas, Shortly after the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, in one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, he was appointed by the National Relief Commission to be one of the three special commissioners to visit army camps and cantonments in the United States and Cuba and to render such relief as was found to be necessary, and

Whereas, Upon the outbreak of the War with Germany in one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, he was appointed a National Food Director in charge of the Jewish people and served with credit and distinction, and

Whereas, During the past few years his time has been devoted chiefly to the direction of the affairs of the National Farm School at Doylestown, and

Whereas, In spite of failing health and strict orders from his physician, Dr. Krauskropf insisted upon continuing his manifold activities, and it was not until forced to do so by a breakdown that he consented to take a rest, and

Whereas, By his unfailing devotion to, and his indefatigable work in the performance of the duties he assumed, he died a martyr to his congregation and his school, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That in the death of Dr. Joseph Krauskropf, the Commonwealth has lost an eminent citizen, an eloquent preacher, a deep thinker, a profound scholar and a mighty influence for civic betterment, That although eminently a leader of his Race, he was preeminently a staunch, patriotic and virile American, paying unswearving allegiance and rendering unfaultering devotion to the land of his adoption, that he was a rare citizen of usefulness unquestioned, of ability most marked, of learning most profound and in his devotion to duty, he faltered not, until at the end when arduous labors in the services of his fellowmen undermined health, he laid down his life for his friends; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, and that a copy thereof duly certified by the proper officers of the Senate and House of Representatives be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

Howard Smith,
James V. Lafferty,

Mr. DAIX. offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

In the Senate, June 12, 1923.

Whereas, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, adopted a joint resolution which provided for the appointment of a committee to arrange for an International Exhibition to be held in Philadelphia in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversity of American Independence, and

Whereas, The said General Assembly has with great reluctance found it necessary to refuse to make an appropriation to financially assist in the proper celebration of the said anniversary by reason of the urgent need of all the available revenues of the State during the next two years to secure the proper functioning of the Commonwealth and its various agencies, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly hereby reaffirms its interest in the success of the said celebration, extends to the Independence Celebration Commission its congratulations upon the magnitude of the work already accomplished by them and expresses the hope that they may proceed with their plans and preparations for the holding of a celebration, commensurate in size and magnitude with the important historical occassion it is to celebrate and the great city in which it is to be held.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Independence Celebration Commission.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. VARE. At the close of this most unusual and eventful session of the Legislature, it might be profitable to indulge in a brief resume of its work in order that the contribution that has been made to the public weal by the General Assembly of Pennsylvania of 1923 may be properly assessed and duly appreciated by the people of our State. Personally, I surrendered a seat in the American Congress for the express purpose of contributing my humble efforts toward upholding the hands of the newly elected Governor in order that I might become a part of the Legislative machinery that would have the honor of assisting the Chief Executive in carrying out his announced program which at once became important as well as indispensible to the best interests of the people of the State. It must not be forgotten that the self-imposed undertakings by the Governor were herculean. He believed that the great Electorate of our State had commissioned him to adopt Revolutionary measures if necessary to correct evils that had crept into our system of State Administration and to inaugurate a new era of law enforcement and efficient administration. Gifford Pinchot assumed the responsibilities of his office and immediately proceeded to carry out his promises by becoming a militant crusader for the accomplishment of those purposes which deemed indispensable for the inauguration of new schemes of administration, and the adoption of measures of greatest efficiency and the best methods of economically meeting the absolute necessity of State Government. My friends together with myself came to Harrisburg thoroughly convinced of the sincerity of the Governor's intentions believing in the honesty of his purposes and, at the risk of occasionally being misunderstood by a great constituency that at times, of course, were not thoroughly advised as to what the Governor was attempting to accomplish and at other times, perhaps, not in absolute sympathy with his efforts, we have honestly and thoroughly cooperated with him, and I am sure that we will never have any reason to regret that we have pursued this course, for when the history of the accomplishments of this administration from its inauguration up to the present time has been written, it will stand in the highest position among our States, and it will be clearly demonstrated that no Governor in so short a time has accomplished so much; so that a Legislature that has become a part of such a program and has furnished such an Executive with the necessary Legislation will have its name written high in the honor roll of our State. At times there have been some differences of opinion. A Legislator is not required to surrender his own personality, nor to submerge his judgment in another's he has his duty to his constituents and must be guided by his best judgment as to how he can most effectively serve them and carry out their desires and accomplish those things that will serve them to the greatest advantage, and while we have striven to thus conform to the very apparent desires of our constituents in certain important matters, we have never waivered for a moment in our loyalty to the Governor and our determination to assist him in his constructive program. This Legislature has passed the code which will revolutionize the State Government; it reduces an unwieldy, and unscientific system of State Government to an efficient, simple and economical method of conducting the people's business. A deficiency inherited from past administration has been provided for by imposing upon the people (a temporary) financial obligations. The appropriations have been wisely and most economically disbursed. Our revenue measures have been spread over the widest field possible; its necessary burdens have been placed where they can most readily be met. The benefits that have arisen from the constructive Legislation of this sesion will add immeasurably to public comfort and prosperity. The great project of the Delaware River Bridge has received ample appropriations so that this work of utmost importance will go on with the greatest despatch. Sane legislation guarantees the conservation of the States Water Power. I have a particular pride in the old age pension legislation. For years this sort of humanitarian law has been the desire of all thinking men and women who realize that the man who works and earns his living by the sweat of his brow has no opportunity to provide for inevitable old age. This Legislation is the beginning of a new regime for these men and women and when the idea has fully materialized in subsequent enabling legislation our workmen can contemplate advancing age with no misgivings or fear. We have provided Mine Cave Legislation to relieve the people of the Anthracite Coal Regions and have met the objections of the Supreme Court of the United States to the former Legislation in this respect passed by the last Legislature. We have given the investors of our state more thorough protection and a greater degree of security in their investments by the passage of the socalled Blue Sky laws. We have passed various other laws which are beneficial to the people of the Commonwealth. We have cooperated most cheerfully and liberally with representatives of the various sections of our great state to assist them in passing legislation which they considered necessary to the happiness, comfort and prosperity of their immediate communities. It is fair to say that under the leadership of our new Governor, the State has taken on new hope; it has become inspired with new ambitions and loftier purposes. Every member of this General Assembly whether he be a Senator or member of the House of Representatives can, with great satisfaction, return to his or her home contented in the thought that he or she has been a part in a great upward movement and has contributed in no small degree to one of the greatest programs that our State has ever undertaken.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE NON-CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 81.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has non-concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 81, entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the executive judicial and legislative departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three

SENATE RECEDES FROM AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL No. 81.

Mr. STITES. Mr. President and fellow Senators, when the present Governor of Pennsylvania was inaugurated a situation confronted the State of Pennsylvania with reference to the enforcement of the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment which, in the judgment of the Governor, was exceedingly acute. There was a sentiment broadcast throughout the State, instigated and led on by those who were profiting commercially from the failure to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment, that led the Governor to believe that a situation had arisen which was likely to place the State of Pennsylvania in the rank of those States that did not intend to observe the provisions of the Constitution as decided by the sober judgment of the representatives in Congress in the United States Senate, and he accordingly announced his intention to use every means in his power to secure legislation which would place the State of Pennsylvania within the ranks of those States that did believe in enforcing the provisions of the Constitution. To that end there was introduced in the Senate, by Senator Snyder, the very well known Enforcement Act. That bill received the enthusiastic endorcement of the Senate of Pennsylvania and was adopted in this Senate by a vote of thirty to fifteen. The bill was subsequently passed in the House and became the law of the State of Pennsylvania. The Governor believed that adequate means should be provided for the enforcement of the provisions of that Act and he accordingly asked the State of Pennsylvania, through its representatives in the Senate and House, to provide him with the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to carry out the provisions of the Enforcement Act. My fellow Senators here on the floor, last night, by a mojority, decided to endorse the request of the Governor for the sum needed and passed an amendment to the general appropriation bill granting him the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the purpose of carrying out the provisions in the Enforcement Act. The judgment of the House has differed from the judgment of the Senate in respect to that item and we are now confronted with the question as to whether or not we should prolong the discussion, insist upon the action of the Senate being concurred in by the House, and demand that the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars be provided for the Governor in his efforts to carry out the law. The Governor of Pennsylvania is very sensible of the splendid support which has been given to him by the Senate and House in the carrying out of his constructive program. You have whole heartedly supported him in the passage of the Enforcement Act. You have adopted as sound his policy with reference to the Budget System and you have further enacted into law the re-organization code, a far reaching and most progressive measure. As a matter of fact, as a result of the work of the Senate and House the State of Pennsylvania has passed into the column of those distinctly progressive states of the Union. The spirit of Roosevelt which flamed through this State in the year 1912 still lives and the Senate and House have given concrete evidence of that fact, and the Governor of Pennsylvania, I say, is highly sensible of the support you have given him in connection with his program. Further than that, in order to carry out the provisions of the program as outlined by the Governor and to provide the means for carrying out the business of the State and meeting a possible deficit, the Senate and House has wholeheartedly, through the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Ways and Means of the House, laid the necessary taxation to provide the means of revenue to carry on the business of the Commonwealth during the next two years. In almost every thing that he regarded as essential of a constructive character this Senate and House has joined with him enthusiastically and wholeheartedly, with very few exceptions, and I think I can bespeak the feeling of the Governor that he has the greatest sense of appreciation for the work of the Senate and House in respect to that program and in respect to the great issues which have confronted us here this session. The sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars is not a small item. It is a very considerable item when the needs of the State of Pennsylvania for revenue and for the necessary money to carry on the business of the State are considered. The Governor naturally feels very keenly the necessity for law enforcement in Pennsylvania. He has not yielded one inch, it only confirms him in his determination to carry out the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment to the extent of his ability and to use every agency of the government of the State of Pennsylvania in the effort to see to it that the Eighteenth Amendment is carried out and the law as a whole rigidly enforced. But we are now in the twilight hours of the session of nineteen twenty-three, and you, gentlemen, have given long and close attention to the affairs of the Commonwealth. Many of you have deferred business matters to the extent almost of embarrassment. You are anxious, to go to your homes and take up those tasks which lie close to your heart, and the Governor of Pennsylvania, while he realizes that the better judgment of the people of Pennsylvania is insistent upon the fact that the law should be enforced and that the means should be provided, nevertheless, has determined that at this late hour in this session of nineteen hundred and twenty-three it is not his desire to add to the embarassment of the Senate and the House by prolonging this session to the extent of insisting upon the matter of the item of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to the point where it will become burdensome to the members of the Senate and House and send us all home with the feeling that we have been embarassed and annoyed and delayed in our efforts to return to our homes because of the Governor's insistence upon the item of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Doubtless the way will open itself for him to enforce the law with the means at his command. The Governor of this State has in his heart to-day, I know a feeling of appreciation for the work of the Senate and House in connection with this program and I believe it will be the part of wisdom on the part of ths Senate not to further prolong the session over this item of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The matter lay very close to my own heart, as was indicated by what I said to you gentlemen on the floor of the Senate last night.

Mr. President, I, therefore, move you that the Senate recedes from its amendment in the item of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, on page three, section two of House Bill No. 81, lines nine to thirteen, that the amendment as proposed be stricken out and the House be so notified. The amendment to be stricken out reads as follows: "For the payment of expenses incurred by and under the direction of the Governor for the enforcement of the laws of this Commonwealth two years the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars."

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I suscribe to everything that has been said by the distinguished Senator from Montgomery county and take pleasure in seconding the motion in the interest of getting away from Harrisburg.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, in my campaign for reelection to this Senate last summer and fall I issued a platform. On that in bold type is printed: "The Constitution must and shall be obeyed. Law enforcement is the watchword of the hour."

We have passed an enforcement bill. Shall we withhold the means to enforce? If law enforcement does not prevail, will we not descend into a state of anarchy? I do not ask others to vote as I do but as for me I regard this a great moral question. I am willing to fight it out along this line if it takes all summer. I shall not vote to recede.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of Senate Bill No. 699, (House Bill No. 857), on third reading, entitled:

An Act providing for the lapsing of unexpended or unencumbered balances of appropriations

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agree to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and considerationtion of Senate No. 699, (House Bill No. 857), as follows:

An Act providing for the lapsing of unexpended or unencumbered balances of appropriations

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That hereafter unless otherwise specifically stated in the act making the appropriation the unexpended or unencumbered balances of all appropriations made for any purposes whatsoever shall lapse at the end of the day of May thirty-first of the second year following that in which the appropriations are made by the legislature and for this purpose the Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall consider as lapsed or as having reverted to the State Treasury under the terms hereof all such balances in appropriations as are not covered by requisitions filed in the Auditor General's Office on or before August first of the second year after that in which the appropriations are made by the legislature or which are not otherwise encumbered Such balances remaining in appropriations shall be regarded as unencumbered unless notices of encumbrances thereon together with satisfactory details thereof shall be filed with the Auditor General and State Treasurer by the proper official or officials on or before August first of the second year following that in which the appropriations are made

Any contracts or agreements encumbering appropriations notices of which encumbrances have been previously given to the Auditor General and State Treasurer according to the terms hereof must be completed and requisitions in the usual form filed in the Auditor General's office on or before May thirty-first of the fourth year following that in which the appropriations are made Otherwise the amounts represented by such notices of encumbrances shall likewise lapse and shall be no longer available for the purposes for which appropriated

Section 2. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to lapse any appropriation heretofore made to the Water Supply Commission by the act of July twenty-fifth one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand one hundred and ninety-one entitled "An act providing for the deepening widening and improvement of French Creek in Crawford County vesting certain powers in the Water Supply Commission including the taking of land and materials by eminent domain and making an appropriation" and by the act approved July eighteenth one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Appropriation Acts page two hundred and forty-seven) entitled "An Act making an appropriation to the Water Supply Commission for the purpose of continuing the work of deepening widening and improving French Creek in Crawford County commenced under the provisions of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand one hundred ninety-one) entitled 'An Act providing for the deepening widening and improvement of French Creek in Crawford county vesting certain powers in the Water Supply Commission including the taking of land and materials by eminent domain and making an appropriation'" for the purpose of deepening widening and improving French Creek in Crawford county and nothing contained in this act shall be construed to lapse any unexpended balance of the appropriations made under the provisions of the act of June fourteenth one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws nine hundred and fifty-one) entitled "An Act making an appropriation to aid in the erection of a memorial in commemoration of the victory of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry at the Battle of Lake Erie and the centennial celebration of that event and the northwestern campaign of General William Henry Harrison in the war of eighteen hundred and twelve and to defray the expenses of the commission appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania incurred in connection with said celebration and the erection of said memorial" remaining available to be used under the terms of that act or to properly recognize the fact that the fleet commanded by Commodore Perry at the Battle of Lake Erie was constructed in Pennsylvania and sailed from port Erie to meet the British fleet and returned thereto after the victory and nothing contained in this act shall be construed to lapse any unexpended balance of the appropriation made under the provisions of the act of May twenty-eight one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and sixty-one) entitled "An Act making an appropriation for the commemoration of the building of the fleet at Erie with which the Battle of Lake Erie was won by the restoration of the brig Niagra Commodore Perry Flagship in that battle providing for its participation in the events of the celebration of the one hundredth aniversary thereof its care and aiding in the erection of a permanent marker arch or memorial at Erie" remaining available for the erection of a permanent marker arch or memorial at the city of Erie Pennsylvania commemorating the building of the fleet at that place and the victory of Commodore Perry

Section 3 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to, and the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I must confess that I do not understand what this bill means. I have read it several times and if there is any member on the floor of the Senate that can explain the bill I certainly would appreciate the information.

Mr. LONG. Mr. President, I am not going to volunteer to explain, but I would like to know if any one can tell me whether this represents some of the eleven million dollars bond issue from the Highway Department?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, this bill when it came from the House went to the Committee on Appropriations. The Committee on Appropriations reported out the bill, then the Senate sent it to the Committee on Finance, from which it came the last time, and for that reason I am not in a position to know just exactly what it is now, because I did not have the last control of it. When it left the Committee on Appropriations the bill meant this: the bill meant that hereafter it applied to no present appropriations but it meant that hereafter all appropriations should end at each biennium, all unexpended appropriations should be lapsed. The bill as it was originally introduced in the House would have lapsed all unexpended unemcumbered appropriations as of June 1, 1923. That was eliminated, and the bill as it left the Committee on Appropriations was only a bill lapsing appropriations in the future on the first day of June of each odd-numbered year, all appropriations which were not then expended or encumbered. Whether it was still that way when it left the Committee on Finance I am unable to say.

Mr. SISSON. Mr. President, I have not examined the bill, not the whole of it, so that I am not entirely familiar with it, but included in the exceptions is an appropriation of 1911. We formed a commission here to join commissions of other states to erect a monument, marker or memorial at Erie to commemorate the building of the fleet, commemorating the victory won by Commodore Perry at the Battle of Lake Erie, and that monument has been built and it is one of the great monuments of the world. No money has ever been appropriated here but the commission was then given between forty and fifty thousand dollars that they had saved up from other appropriations to build that monument to commemorate the building of the fleet, and that we wish to do as soon as we can.

And the question recurring,

RECONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL No. 959.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 847 (House Bill No. 959), entitled:

An Act to repeal the act approved July eleventh one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred eighteen) entitled "An Act relating to dogs and the protection of livestock and poultry from damage by dogs providing for the licensing of dogs regulating the keeping of dogs and authorizing their destruction in certain cases providing for the protection of licensed dogs and for dogs temporarily imported for trial show and breeding purposes prescribing certain privileges for hunting dogs and dogs owned or used by the Board of Game Commissioners providing for the assessment of damages done by dogs and payment thereof by the proper county to the owners of livestock and poultry and of damages to licensed dogs imposing powers and duties on certain State county city borough town and township officers and employes and on city councils of cities of the first and second class and providing penalties" and section thirty-nine of the act approved May eleventh one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws five hundred twenty-two) entitled "An act relating to dogs and the protection of live stock and poultry from damages by dogs providing for the licensing of dogs by the Secretary of Agriculture providing for the enumeration of dogs by assessors regulating the keeping of dogs and authorizing their destruction in certain cases providing for the protection of licensed dogs and for dogs temporarily imported for trial show and breeding purposes prescribing certain privileges for hunting dogs and dogs owned or used by the Board of Game Commissioners providing for the assessment of damages done to live stock and poultry by dogs and for the illegal killing of licensed dogs and the payment of such damages by the Commonwealth imposing powers and duties on certain State county city borough town and township officers and employes directing the payment of all moneys collected into the State Treasury and making an appropriation thereof was defeated.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I voted "No".

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I voted "No".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, this is the dog bill, taking the moneys away from first and second class cities and placing them in the special fund with the Agricultural Department. We think that is unfair. I have had more than a thousand people come to me from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh thanking me for the interest I have taken in trying to defeat this bill. The moneys derived from this dog tax in the first and second class cities are given over to humane societies and I think, therefore, that the Senate should vote down this motion for reconsideration.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. President, I have requests from a large number of people from my district desiring that this bill be passed. It seems to me it is fair to the country districts that the cities yield in this matter, and assist the country districts with this aid in the operation of good laws for the protection not only of the country districts but also for the cities and towns. The benefits which will inure to the department by this bill will be a protection not only to the country but also to the great cities, and in fact I think that the largest benefit derived from this bill will accrue to the citizens of the larger cities. I hope that this bill may be reconsidered and favorably acted upon.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I hope this bill will not be reconsidered. I submit in answer to the distinguished Senator who just preceded me, that it seems to me that without any thought of raising a question between the agricultural section and the large centres of population, it seems to me that the cities are very industrious in assisting in the financing in providing revenues and assisting in every possible way, those who represent the agricultural sections. I have no desire to go into detail explaining the great amount of funds that the large centres of population pay for the maintenance of the government, a very, very much larger share than do the sixty odd counties of the state that represent the agricultural sections. It seems to me it is going a shade too far to attempt first to reach out into the large cities for this very small additional state revenue, less than $50,000. It seems to me it goes a shade too far in interfering with the humane societies which have given their time to looking after this character of animals. I do hope the Senate will not reconsider this matter, having in mind that the present law is just, it is fair and it is equitable, and it is not desired by the people whom I have the honor to represent in the City of Philadelphia.

Mr. STITES. Mr. President, this bill was discussed at length when the bill was up for consideration on Monday, and an explanation was made by some of the Senators from the larger centers of population as to the work of humane Societies that is being done in Pittsburgh, Scranton and Philadelphia in connection with the work of caring for and relieving possibility of cruelty to animals. I have rather an intimate knowledge of the work that is being done in Philadelphia, because members of my own family are greatly interested in the humane society there.

I think you gentlemen from the rural districts perhaps lose sight sometimes of the necessity for societies of that kind in the great congested centers of population, where large numbers of foreign born in the thickly settled sections of the cities have not quite the same consideration for the dumb beast that is shown by the men from the country districts and it is necessary to have work done and done by public spirited men and women who give of their time and their own money in an effort to see that the ideals of Americans, so far as kindness and gentleness, is carried on, by these people from abroad who have only lately come into the congested districts of the States. Now this dog license money does not mean a whole lot to the cities of Pennsylvania, but it does mean a tremendous lot to these societies of the cities. I think it is very unfortunate that we are confronted here with the situation of an effort being made to take away that money from those societies. This motion, in my judgment, ought not to pass and I trust it will be voted down.

Mr. LONG. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Stites.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator form Montgomery, Mr. Stites, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STITES. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. LONG. Mr. President, I would like to know how much of this money is going to the humane society.

Mr. STITES. Mr. President, I do not have the figures immediately before me for the information of the Senator from Franklin, but it is a very considerable item when the interests of the humane societies are concerned.

Mr. LONG. Mr. President, I want to call the attention of the Senators to a particular fact in connection with this matter. It is only, as I understand, some portion of this money that goes to the humane societies that are largely conducted from voluntary contributions. I understand the Department of Agriculture does not propose to interfere with their getting as much from the Department as they have been getting from those various citizens and it intended to interfere with the societies at all or to interfere with them in a material way. I think this motion should prevail.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I do not wish to detain or delay, but prior to the passage of the present act the price of a dog license, the record will show, that the Humane Society of Pittsburgh received only from this State from five to ten thousand dollars. If this money is taken away from them it will mean further contributions, solicitations to maintain the Humane Society of the City of Pittsburgh. this is nothing more than a fair proposition. If the Humane Society of Pittsburgh did not function and do the things that were necessary to be done in a humane way, not only for the dogs but for the horse and cow through the city streets at times with reference to the dumb animal, then I would not make this plea I feel that this motion should not prevail. I trust that the law will continue as it now is and the humane societies that participate in the care of these dogs will continue.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President and members of the Senate, it appears to me that the members from the county districts who are again moving for the reconsideration of this bill, are in a similar position to that which Jeff was during the war. At that time Mutt and Jeff had an argument and Mutt insisting that Jeff pay some attention to preparedness but Jeff could not see it. The argument waxed very warm and Mutt again insisted that Jeff must give some attention to preparedness and Jeff said "Well now Mutt why should I be interested in preparedness?" And Mutt said to him "Jeff, you must be interested in prepardness that you will be ready to fight for your country." And Jeff said, "Well why should I fight for the country when I live in the city?" It appears to me that the members from the country districts do not want to help the city retain these funds so that it can be turned over to the Humane Societies to take care of the humane things in the city. In the city of Pittsburgh there is derived from these license fees in the neighborhood of fifteen thousand dollars, ten thousand of which is turned over to the Animal Rescue League and there is paid by public subscription in addition to that ten thousand dollars about twelve thousand dollars a year and I hope that the members of the Senate will vote down this motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A division being called for, twenty Senators voted in the affirmative and nineteen in the negative, Whereupon the question was determined in the affirmative.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RESOLUTION TO DISCHARGE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE FROM FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1360.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows:

> In the House of Representatives, June 14 1923.
> Resolved, (if the Senate concur) that the Conference Committee be discharged from the further consideration of House Bill No. 1360.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate concur in the resolution.

Mr. STITES. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

SENATE BILL NO. 1524, RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS.

He also returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 1524, entitled:

> An Act to amend section two of the act approved the tenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and seventy-three) entitled "An act providing for the burial of certain persons who are have been or shall be soldiers sailors or marines designated as 'deceased service men' defining the term deceased service man' authorizing county commissioners to provide headstones markers and burial plots for such deceased service men at the expense of the county in which they shall die or have a legal residence at the time of their death"

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION CONGRATULATING THE INDEPENDENCE CELEBRATION COMMISSION.

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, as follows:

In the Senate, June 14, 1923.

Whereas, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, adopted a joint resolution which provided for the appointment of a committee to arrange for an International Exhibition to be held in Philadelphia in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of American Independence, and,

Whereas, The said General Assembly has with great reluctance found it necessary to refuse to make an appropriation to financially assist in the proper celebration of the said anniversary by reason of the urgent need of all the available revenues of the State during the next two years, to secure the proper functioning of the Commonwealth and its various agencies, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly hereby reaffirms its interest in the success of the said celebration, extends to the Independence Celebration Commission its congratulations upon the magnitude of the work already accomplished by them and expresses the hope that they may proceed with their plans and preparations for the holding of a celebration, commensurate in size and magnitude with the important historical occasion it is to celebrate and the great city in which it is to be held.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Independence Celebration Commission.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows:

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DAIX offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 14, 1923.

Resolved, That the Senate do not proceed to the election of a President pro tempore, and that the Clerks act as Tellers.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I am instructed by the caucas of the Republican members of the Senate to place in nomination the candidate for the office of President Pro Tempore during the interim. I think I would be remiss if I just gave utterance to the name of the gentleman at the present time without voicing my sentiments, which are the echoing throughts of every one within the sound of my voice. It has been customary that when the President Pro Tempore was about to be nominated just simply to place his name in nomination. This caucus has decided upon a man who in point of service is the oldest man in the Senate of Pennsylvania. He is what every one will acknowledge to be a modest, retiring but nevertheless energetic representative of his constitutents of the county from which he comes. In looking over the history of this gentleman, in going back the number of years I have served in the Senate, I have never up to the present time known him to come forward and ask for a committee chairmanship or be placed in any position where he was going around and speaking for himself. He has always been the other way and this comes to him unsolicited, and comes because it is deserving at the hands of the Senate of Pennsylvania. In looking over biography of this man I see that the County of Lancaster, from which he comes, born in 1859, and reading over that biography up to the present time, has certainly, except in the mercantile pursuits, which he did not enter to any great extent, except in later years, with his son, and outside of that, as a lawyer, as a publisher of a newspaper, as a railroad man and as a legislator, always stood prominent in that county, For sixteen years he was Justice of the Peace in his own county, and during that time he occupied that position which makes him dear to us people in the Senate, and only last night,—and he will pardon me for saying what I am to say,—when he was talking to the Chaplain of the Senate, he happened just incidentally to speak of the time when he served as Justice of the Peace. He said "my great aim was not to punish a man, I did not believe in sending him to the penitentiary, but I believed in extending the right hand of fellowship to him, and giving him a chance in life. Probably he does not like me to say this, but that shows the man we are going to place high up as President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and therefore, gentlemen of the Senate, on behalf of the caucus, I place in nomination for President Pro Tempore during the interim, the Honorable John G. Homsher of Lancaster.

Mr. SONES. Mr. President, I am directed by the Democratic members of the Senate to place in nomination for President Pro Tempore during the interim the Senator from Monroe, the Honorable Harvey Huffman.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I move that the nominations be closed.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. The roll will be called by the Chief Clerk.

The roll was taken as follows.

FOR MR. HARVEY HUFFMAN.

THE PRESIDENT. The Clerks agree in their tally, and the result of their ballot is Mr. John Homsher thirty-nine votes and Mr. Huffman six votes. The Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher has received the vote of the majority of all the members of the Senate and is, therefore, declared elected to the office of President Pro Tempore of the Senate to serve during the interim beginning after this day's session has adjourned.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair appoints the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Daix, and the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, a committee to escort the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher, the newly elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate to the Bar of the Senate, where the oath of office will be administered by the Honorable Frank B. Wickersham, Additional Law Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, we have the honor to present the Honorable John G. Homsher of Lancaster County, the a President Pro Tempore elect of the Senate, prepared to take the oath of office.

The oath of office was accordingly administered.

The PRESIDENT. Gentlemen of the Senate, I desire to present to you your newly elected President Pro Tempore, the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President and Senators of Pennsylvania. It is with a deep feeling of gratitude for your friendship and generous courtesy that I receive this high office at your hands. I realize that it is the highest honor the Senate has to bestow and I appreciate it accordingly.

And I am not unmindful either that I can offer no qualifications that especially entitled me to this high office and I shall need your indulgence in many things, which from your friendliness in the past I feel assured that I shall have.

I am also profoundly impressed with the feeling that the assumption of this office carries with it a high responsibility and obligation and while I cannot hope to meet these in as high a degree as the Honorable Senator who is my predecessor, or the other worthy Senators who have preceded him, I will try to make up in devotion what I may lack in ability.

I never try to conceal the high estimation in which I hold my membership in this Senate, with its courtesies and friendships with you, its men of ability, patriotism and devotion to duty and high ideals, and to be elected by you as the presiding officer of this body I hold as the greatest achievement of my life.

Early in life I became impressed that this "Holy Experiment of Penn" was the greatest frame of government ever invented by men and as the years have come and gone and the more I have studied and observed it the stronger has this impression become.

It shall be my greatest ambition to serve you worthily, and to be able to so demean myself that I may continue to have your friendship and to deserve the honor you have conferred upon me.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS TO HON. FRANK B. WICKERSHAM.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SMITH offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate be extended to the Honorable Frank B. Wickersham, Judge of the Courts of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, for his favor and courtesy in administering the oath of office to the newly elected President pro tempore, the Honorable John G. Homsher.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO THE HONORABLE T. L. EYRE.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate. There has been a lot of speech-making this session. I don't know but what it has been a good thing, it enabled us at least to get better acquainted with each other and have a better understanding, perhaps, from time to time, of each others view point, and give a freer expression to our hearts, and know more exactly where we stood. I have taken some part in the frequent discussions which we have had upon the floor, and have had occasion from time to time to say some things about various matters pending here that perhaps were not very nice. But I assure, gentlemen, that I would much rather oh much rather say nice things about you or about any one else or about anything else than I would mean things, and while I make no pretense to any particular degree of excellency in saying things at all, yet I believe that I can say nice things better than mean things. It makes me feel better. Now the fuss is over, we have had almost six months of it, and I feel sure you are as glad as I am. We have had occasion during the last six months to differ quite frequently. We have not all been able to see things that came up here the same way, and at times we may have been provoked with each other and from time to time during the progress of our deliberations the irritation that we feel has broken out and once in a while we, all of us, may have said somethings that now we want to take back. Maybe I have done that too, because sometimes, thinking over a matter, we may have become irritated and I may have been irritated too. I want to seize this oportunity, while it presents itself, to say to all of my fellow-Senators that I am sorry for all the mean things that I have said and for all the bad things that I have done and I hope you will forgive me and love me just as much as you did before I said them.

Now I do not mean that in just the spirit of levity that you may think. It is a pleasure, of course, to be nice to people, to say nice things about them, but I have always felt, also, a strain of sadness at the close of the session. I have said this same thing to you before. It is hard for me to say it again and dress it up in new words, because it is the same old thought. We have worked together here, our relations have been very close, and we have grown to know each other so well. With some of you I have worked here many years, and I have grown to know you, of course, better than the newer men, but I have made associations that mean more to me than anything else that I can think of. I have made friendships here in the Senate which I would not trade for any degree of material prosperity that might have come, and I hate like the dickens, my fellow-Senators, to break these ties. Of course, I am anxious to go back home, to go to work, to engage in the routine that is so easily followed, but I cannot help feeling sad because we have got to break up this session, sunder the ties that mean so much, and I do not think there is any other mission in the world, I do not think there is any other thing that binds men together quite so closely as the tie of friendship. Oh we have lots of acquaintances, there are lots of people that we know, but that is not what I mean. When you can call a man a friend and mean it, you have gotten just about as close to him as it is possible. Now I just feel today that I have had 48 friends here that I am going away from, and you know with me it is just like singing my "Swan Song", I do not like to do it. In considering the things that make this hard to do, you have got to consider what it is that makes a man close to another in this Senate chamber, and you see there are a lot of things, and that is true. The close association, socially, and in our deliberations, here the intimate contact, the wealth of our knowledge of each other that we acquire, and the manhood that we find in our fellow-man, the broad sympathy, the kindness that we have discovered the rest of us possess, the unselfish spirit of being willing to help each other and forgive each other's frailties, and realizing that after all we are not always right, that the other man's view may be as important to him as ours is to us, the fairness that we exhibit to each other, the good nature, all of these things, and others go together to make this situation that is so hard to leave, make this bond that exists between us so hard to break. That is the thing that brings you men back here session after sesion and term after term, although you ought to be at home attending to your business, your profession, doing your work in support of the local community.

You know why you come back here? Because you have found here something that you have never found any place else on earth and you want to be a party to it and you keep on coming back until some fellow wants to come worse than you do and keeps you home.

Now, gentlemen, that ought to be pretty near enough out of me, but I want to say to you that I am so glad that I can end it up by saying nice things and smoothing over the mean things that I have done and all that you have done to me, and that you do love me in the spirit that I know you are loving me, and while I am saying nice things about the rest of you and trying to lead you to think nice things about me I want to say some nice things about our President Pro Tempore, Senator Eyre. I said some nice things to you about him two years ago but they were in the nature of promises and now I am glad that I have the chance to say to you that I thank Senator Eyre for redeeming the promises I made in his behalf. I said to you then, when you elected him President Pro Tempore of the Senate, as you had done at that time, that he was going to be just and impartial in his rulings and I think he has been, and I am sure you think so. I said to you that he would be fair, that he would know the parlimentary procedure and administer it as a man who holds that exalted position ought to, and I am sure you think he has done it too, because I don't recall one occassion this session that there has been an appeal from the decision that he made as presiding officer, and that is pretty good evidence that he was right and that he has been pretty nice with us, in the turmoil we have been in this session. I think he has presided over the deliberations here with dignity, with fairness, with consideration to overlook our faults and frailties, for most of us do not know much about parlimentary procedure, upsetting the rules all the time and making wrong motions and getting all bound up, and he stood up there those six months patiently making the proper motions for us and correcting our mistakes and keeping us straight, and we are indebted to him for that. We are glad that he was the kind of a man that wanted to help us out and knew how to do it when he made up his mind, but aside from that you know he has been a member of the body just the same, he has attended our committee meetings, he has taken part in our deliberations here on the floor, he has been a member of our social life, and he got along might well with all of us. I know Larry and I differed quite frequently this session, we have had to tussle with each other on the floor here, in the committee rooms, and, I believe, coming to think of it, he usually won out. I suppose that was because maybe he was right, but in all the differences we had, in all the days and occasions that we had to take opposing sides, I have always found him the perfectly square gentleman. He treated me courteously, he had respect for my opinions and tried to have me respect his and see his side and he in turn tried to see mine. Now is it not mighty nice that we can say those things and be men? Sometimes a disagreeable duty is assigned to you., oft times to say nice things about a fellow that has not been nice and that is when you have got to be a true orator. I make no pretensions to oratorical ability and I thank goondness I do not need to have any to say these things about Senator Eyre and I know that you appreciate that just as I do. Just to show you how much we think of him we, with some other friends of Senator Eyre and friends of ours, have bought him a little remembrance. We did not think that Senator Eyre was going to need auything to keep us fresh in his mind during the years to come. We knew that he would remember us all the rest of his life and that we did not need to give him anything of a material nature to keep burning in his heart his feeling for us, but we wanted him to have something that his family and his friends could enjoy and could ask him about, so that he can explain his possession of it and he would tell them the many pleasant experiences and the many pleasant memories that he had at this place and of us after we are gone and ask him to accept it from us, because we ask him to believe that we know he is not going to need this little expression of our esteem to keep us in mind, but just so there may be something for those who do not know us so well as we know him and as he knows us, to point out to them it means and to say to them in years to come, "A lot of good friends of mine that I have had the pleasure of serving with up at Harrisburg during the Session of 1923, gave me these things", and I am sure it will mean just as much to him to think about those days as it will mean to us.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I have said one hundred times in public and in private that I would not exchange my friends for all the gold in the vaults of the United States Treasury. I meant it then and I mean it now. This is the proudest moment of my life. I have a heart filled with love and emotion for every member of this Senate and it is filled to overflowing for my esteemed friend Dave Craig, because I know that he speaks always as he feels. It is true that we may have had our differences on the floor of the Senate but no compliment has ever been paid to me so high as the compliment paid by Dave Craig when he says that I am a fair opponent. I have always felt the same of him and I think he oversteps the mark when he says we have had differences very often at this session of the preceeding sessions in which I have served with him in the Senate, because I have always found that he has a mind that works directly and accurately on every question under discussion in this body and the State of Pennsylvania has been fortunate in having him and men of his type as members of this body.

I do, gentlemen of the Senate, appreciate and hold sacred the friendship of each and every one of you on both sides of this body. At the outset of this session of the Senate I said to you that I wanted to be fair towards each member of this body. If I have achieved in any sense that desire I am more than repaid for the things that I have hoped for. I received your loyal support and cooperation at all times and whatever has been accomplished at this session you have made possible. I bespeak for my successor, the dean of this body, the Honorable John G. Homsher, of Lancaster County, the same generous support that you have accorded to me.

I do accept with pride and with pleasure the magnificent gift which you have tendered to me, I know, from the depths of your hearts. I am not unmindful of the intrinsic value of the beautiful present which you have placed on the table, but the intrinsic value to me is insignificent as compared with the value that I place upon it as coming from a body of representative men such as this, and I say to you that I accept them on behalf of the sweetest woman in the world, as well as myself. I know that she has a passion for Black, Stor and Krause, New York, Caldwells, Philadelphia, and other leading jewelry stores of this country, and has come home and talked about the beatiful silver which she has seen in those places of business, and I know that her fondest dreams often led her to hope or expect to become the personal possessor of a set so beautiful as those that you have bestowed upon me, I want to say to you that I hope each and every member of this body may come to our home and upon such occasions those plates will always be at your disposal, perhaps not very well filled, but we will cut the meat in a little smaller chunks and divide with you whatever we have to divide.

I am sad to-day, as my distinguished colleague has stated, at the thought of parting with those with whom I have been associated for the past six months. I am here, perhaps, officially, for the last time, but I shall, wherever my pathway leads or wherever your pathway lead, always hold you in fond rememberance, and the members of the Senate of 1923 with deep love and affection and I hope that your pathways may all lead you in pleasant directions and that you may all have and enjoy the bountiful vacation that I think you all richly deserve after the arduous duties that you have performed.

I shall not detain you at any length. Whatever the Session of 1923 has accomplished, you have accomplished. I am not going to extol the work done by this session. That is not up to us, the people of the State must judge as to whether or not we, each and every one of us that have kept faith with out constituents, with ourselves and those with whom we have made our pledges.

In conclusion, I wish that I had the command of language to sufficiently express to you my real deep and genuine feeling of appreciation of this magificient gift which you have bestowed upon me.

PRESENTATION OF GAVEL TO HONORABLE T. L. EYRE.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President and fellow Senators: After listening to the very eloquent address of the distinguished Senator from Beaver, I recognize my inability to express the things that I have in my heart and mind upon this occasion. I am not unmindful of the fact that when I came into the Senate, a few months ago that I was probably coming into a body under rather unique circumstances. The seat that I held in the Senate was first held in 1897 by the late George A. Vare, who held that seat for approximately thirteen years and, as many of you Senators know, he was succeeded by the late Senator Edwin H. Vare, who held it almost a like period. Both of the former Senators who represented the first district of Pennsylvania, on many occasions told me of their very, very close associations in the Senate of Pennsylvania, of their great regard and esteem and affection for the men who occupy this exalted position. They were both of the one mind, namely, that they would not give up this seat even for the high office of Governor of the Commonwealth. And so it is that these opinions that they came to, as a result of their services, I have found to be identical with mine. I have sat in legislative bodies, first in the office of Select Council of the City of Philadelphia, for more than five years and I was a member of the House of Representatives of the American Congress for a period of nearly eleven years, and I have never sat in a body where I regard the associations as close and as friendly, where I found the words of my colleague were unquestioned, where I found men of honor and distinction. And so it, is I am proud of my association with the men of the Senate of Pennsylvania. While this courtesy, these many acts of kindness have been extended generally, and I might say by every member of the Senate, if I have contributed in any small way to the Senators, to the assistance, to the tactfulness of any of my colleagues, I consider I got great pleasure but in all these acts of courtesy and in all these acts of kindness and all these acts of I have come particularly in contact with the distinguished President of this Senate. When I first was elected to the Senate, through its presiding officer accorded me the same seat that my brother occupied. You gentlemen were kind enough and generous enough to agree that I should take this same seat. And I am extremely grateful and I appreciate those courtesies to the very fullest extent. To these courteous men of the Senate I cannot help but say at this time that my association with the distinguished Senators has been, on every occasion, kind, courteous and helpful and I know of no man whom I have had the honor and pleasure of associating with in any legislative body who has tried more to discharge his duties fairly and in line with what he believed to be for the public good.

Mr. President, there has been accorded to me a very, very pleasant duty, on behalf of the Chief Clerk and the officers of the Senate, to present to the distinguished President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Honorable T. Larry Eyre, this gavel, which I am quite sure he will always keep in a place in his home and I am quite sure it will always bring back the very pleasant memories of his associations in the Senate. It might be used for other purposes, it is extremely heavy, but I am quite sure if he ever has occasion to use it he will probably have a soft cushion put under it so it will not be very harmful if he would have occasion to do it.

Senator Eyre, I believe that I voice the opinion of every man every officer, and every employee of the Senate when I bespeak for you and your good wife long life, happiness, and contentment and success.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, Senator Vare and fellow Senators. I am deeply moved by this manifestation of friendship and I want to return, in the presence of this body, to the Lieutenant-Governor, my sincere thanks for the courtesies at all times shown to me by himself. I want to return to the Secretary of the Senate, my friend, your friend, the friend of everybody, Harry Baker, my sincere thanks for the courtesies that he has extended. He made possible whatever success I have had in presiding over this body. I take special pleasure in emphasizing this because I have known Harry since he came in here as a page boy and during all these years I never knew him to do a mean or contemptible thing. He is one of the men whose word is one hundred percent good. When Harry tells you he will do a thing you can forget it and cross it off as having been done. The same can be said of his colleague, the Chief Clerk of this body, Mr. Gallagher, to whom I likewise extend my thanks and appreciation for the many courtesies extended to me, and to all of the desk clerks, who have been extremely courteous, and my heart is again filled with gratitude to them for this beautiful souvenir, which I shall hold sacred during the balance of my life I shall put it in a conspicuous place in my den at my home, where everybody can see it, and it will always remind me of the pleasant associations that I have had with the officers of this body.

To you, Senator Vare, I am exceedingly grateful for your kind words. It so happened that I came to Harrisburg at the same time and on the same train with your beloved and distinguished brother, George Vare, when he came here in 1889 as a member of the House of Representatives, and upon that train I made the acquaintance of George Vare, which lasted until the time of his death. He was followed by your brother, the distinguished Senator, who occupied that chair until the time of his death and he was beloved by every man in this Senate who knew him because he was regarded as a man who was always fair with friend and foe and whose word could at all times be absolutely relied upon. I am sure that this Senate welcomes you and will hope to retain your membership in this body for a long term of years, until you may have become as familiar with the legislative procedure of this body as was your predecessor and brother. In conclusion I thank you one and all and appreciate beyond expression the beautiful gift that you have again bestowed upon me.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE HORACE W. SCHANTZ.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, gentlemen of the Senate of Pennsylvania, Senator Schantz: The bugle is about to sound taps on the Session of 1923. Although it has been fourteen years since I became a member of this body, yet I claim that I am still one of its youngest members. During the time that I served in this chamber I have seen many men come and many men go. Some have made successes of their services and some have not. Those who have been successful and have served their district and their State well have been returned, some of them time and time again. Others have come down here and served one term and have gone back to face their constituency and have their conscience rebuked. There is an unwritten rule in this body that a man must serve apprenticeship before he occupies the important positions within the gift of the Senate. As it has been stated in the vernacular here, a man when he comes to the Senate of Pennsylvania must first sit in church for a reasonable length of time before he is permitted to sing in the choir. Mr. President, at the beginning of the session of 1923 the presiding officer of this body in looking around to find a chairman of the Appropriations Committee selected the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Shantz. Mr. Schantz was not in the Senate when I came here but he came about four years afterwards. From the time that he entered this chamber he was one of the most painstaking, careful, reliable men in this body. He has served his time in the body of the church and he is now singing in the choir. He came from that county which he has represented in this body so well and so long, that is made up of a constituency of good old Pennsylvania Dutch and there is not a man in this body but knows how well he has represented that constituency. Mr. President, I am told, that it is a fact that he is the first Senator ever elected on the Republican ticket from that district. That in itself, is a great honor. He has served in season and not only that district with ability and distinction, but he has at the same time and in like manner served the whole Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. There is not a man here, whether he be of a different political faith from Senator Schantz, or whether he be a member of his own party, but that realizes and recognizes that Senator Schantz is an intelligent, energetic, unassuming Senator. He is always open and above board. He says what he thinks and he means what he says. He says that with energy and ability and when you couple energy with brains the force is irresistable, and I say today Senator Schantz is an irresistable Senator. Mr. President, he has had charge during this session of the Appropriations Committee and there is no man in this body who has keener knowledge of the work of that Committee than I have, for back in the session of 1915 and 1917 you honored me with the same position that Senator Schantz now occupies. During that time, during those two sessions, I was helped and attended in my work and deliberation by a young man as secretary of that committee, who comes from my own district, I refer to Arthur P. Townsend, and I have had a special interest in the administration of this committee by Senator Schantz by reason of the fact that he recognized the sterling ability and the energy of this young man and selected him as his secretary, I am very glad to say Mr. President, at this time that the whole Commonwealth of Pennsylvania feels that this Appropriations Committee has been well and ably handled and I congratulate Senator Schantz on the work that he has done for that committee and as a member of that committee and on behalf of the committee, I take great pleasure in presenting to you, Senator Schantz, as a slight token of our appreciation and esteem, not only of you but of the work that you have done in behalf of your district and in behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania this chest of silver and may I express the hope that you may live long to enjoy the possession of it and that you may be joined in that pleasure by your bride and your charming family.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, Senator Buckman and fellow Senators: Sometimes silence is more expressive than speech. It is certainly fine to have all these nice things said about you. I have always felt that one would rather have them said in his absence than in his presence. Nevertheless, these are some of the things that we sometimes have to endure. I assure you that I regard it as a great honor, as an office of great dignity and responsibility, to be a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania. The Constitution of the State is our fundamental law and that establishes three departments of government, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. First and foremost is the legislative, and in my opinion it is by far the most important, the most powerful and has the weightiest responsibility resting upon it. I have at all times been jealous of the powers and prerogatives vested in the General Assembly and whenever any questions arose that in my judgment in any way tended toward the digging up of the foundations of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, I was always found in opposition.

I feel that about all has been said that can be said upon such an occasion without repetition. I agree with what has been stated, that probably sometimes our impulsiveness and our enthusiasm leads us far afield in speeches that we make in debate in considering the various measures, and I agree and concur in what was said by Senator Craig, that if I said anything that may have at times seemed harsh and cruel, or unwarranted, to any member of this body, I here and now want to apologize and ask every one of you to regard them as mistakes of the head and not of the heart. I want to thank at this time the former President Pro Tempore, Senator Eyre, for honoring me with the appointment of chairman of the Committee on Appropriations. I have been led to believe, and I know it is so understood by many, that the duties of the chairmanship of the Committee on Appropriations are arduous, manifold and strenuous. I have experienced during this session that it is the most delightful, the pleasantest and the easiest job in the Senate. There is nothing nicer, there is nothing more agreeable than to appropriate, expend or distribute money. There is not another position in the Senate that attracts and has the willingness on the part of every member of this body to help, and and assist than the chairmanship of the Committee on Appropriations. Every Senator is at least interested in the appropriations and they have at all times come to my rescue and stood by me and assisted me loyally, faithfully and effectively. Then again, on the other hand, we were very fortunate with the staff. It makes very little difference how incompetent the man on the job is, if he has just enough tact to surround himself with able assistants the work will be properly performed, and with the advice and the help of my friends I was fortunate enough to be surrounded by a staff of able assistants and to them, I think, belongs the credit for the way in which we performed the duties of this committee. We tried to be fair and square and on the level with everybody and I hope we have succeeded. It is, of course, hard to please everybody. The expenditures must be kept within the revenue; to do otherwise will soon bankrupt the Commonwealth, and I believe that was the sentiment of everybody and the duties were performed along those lines.

I want to thank you, gentlemen, from the bottom of my heart for this token, and I assure you that it will be highly valued, not for its monetary value but for the associations connected with it and for the memories that will at all times be brought to my mind whenever I see the gift or think of it, and with malice toward none and with charity for all, with a firmness in the right as God gives us light to see the right, I trust in 1925 to see you all return to continue the great work in which we are here engaged, so that this imperial Commonwealth and the rich principles therein established may be transmitted to posterity untarnished, an heirloom and heritage of boundless proportion.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO JAMES B. WEAVER.

Mr. MacDADE. Mr. President and fellow-Senators: What I have to say on this occasion will be informal and in that informality I trust you will pardon me if I make some allusions to myself. In early life and manhood I never had any desire to participate in any legislative assemblies, but somehow or other, as has been beautifully portrayed today, there seems to be something in the political world that attracts one, and even against your innate desire you are precipitated into the arena and the first thing you know an actual participant and perhaps elected to an office. In 1920 I had an experience in my county when political conditions were such in the State of Pennsylvania, in the judgment of some of the leaders in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, they thought that there ought to be a change in the representation of the County of Delaware in this body. Much against my wishes I was a candidate and perhaps, I might say here, luke warm, but when I came and knew that there was presiding over the destinies of this Commonwealth the old boyhood friend of mine I then put on my spurs and went to work in my humble way to hold up his hand by helping him to mould the policies that he desired to have enacted into law, and I am very proud indeed with all the pledges that are now being made by the present administration to say that I am equally proud of the achievements of the immediate predecessor of the distinguished gentleman who occupies the gubernatorial chair and that all the policies for which he stood I believed then and believe now have been right and just, and that for all that we did in the Session of 1921 there are no apologies to be offered as to what they achieved, and I particularly refer to the educational bill, to the forestry bill, and to the highway code and the administration immediately preceding this will go down in the history as one upon which we can look with retrospect calmly and deliberately and it will be an administration that will compare favorably with any administration preceding it and with the present and future. When I came to this session I felt as long as the standard bearer of our party, who had certain definite policies and in which he was sustained by the people by the vote that elected him, that the same loyalty should be given to him that I tried to give to his immediate predecessor, and they are the motives which have actuated me so far as this administration has been concerned, that I believed he should have assistance from at least the representatives from Delaware County in this chamber, and I am very proud indeed,—prehaps I am singing my "Swan Song," I don't know,—but I am very proud to have particiated in the deliberations and business of this body and that we have wrought so well for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I cannot help but say in passing that I am reminded somewhat of the story, Senator Schantz seemed to be so very much associated this session with preachers and people that go to church, of a man who was in Cincinnati in the days before we ever heard of Mr. Volstead, and there were two distinguished leaders there representing two great parties, the Honorable Thomas B. Reed and Senator George Pugh, the leader of the Democratic Party, and you know in the early days, perhaps some of you recall, it was long ago, that as usual the family had the liquor near, and Mr. Pugh indulged in it somewhat freely and felt quite mellow and in responding to the toast which was assigned to him, among other things, he said "Mr. Reed, you are too good a man to belong to the Republican party. Why don't you join our Democratic church?" and as you know Mr. Reed and the history of him, he was very bright indeed in his replies, and he said to Mr. Pugh, "Don't you know Mr. Pugh it is impossible for me to join the Democratic church because the pew Pugh) is too full." Now of course that must have gone to the heads of some of these Senators.

There has been a task assigned to me and really I do not think that I am the one to make this presentation speech, presenting a token of respect and esteem to the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Judiciary General. I like the remark that was made by Senator Eyre when he referred to the sweetest girl in the world. I have observed this gentleman who is chairman of the Judiciary General Committee and I have come to the conclusion that he is a home-loving man; and I love to see happy married people. Mrs. Weaver is here, I understand; she is here to participate in these ceremonies. We are not going to present to Senator Weaver anything that is really tangible as evidenced by these beautiful gifts around here, we are going to give him an opportunity to sit down and talk the matter over with Mrs. Weaver, that they may decide just what they will purchase with this gift. The members of the Judiciary General Committee have seen fit to bestow upon this chairman a gift in this way so that there will be unity in the family in the future, as there has been in the past. Something has been said by the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Craig, about friendship. There is nothing sweeter in the world than friendship, and I think we realize when the years have passed and our careers are over that we are going to recall the associations that we have had here together in these sessions of 1921 and 1923, and we are going to recall the scenes of pleasure and of pathos as well. I remember in 1921 when I came here there were three Senators who were just as active in life as we are to-day and who have passed to the great beyond and I realize also that as far as public life is concerned many of us are held up to contempt and ridicule, our motives are misconstrued and that too often it is forgotten that we have a personal side, it seems to me they do not forget our indiscretions in a political way. I talked recently to the President of the Theological Seminary of a great Baptist institution and he said "I have great regret at the loss of Senator Crow". He said "Do you know that I preached one Sabbath day in Uniontown in the church that he and his good wife attended and they asked me out to the house to spend a week there and I never witnessed in all my life such an ideal home surrounding". Now I think that is sweet. That is the personal side. Then in attending the funeral of Senator Crow on my return I had a little chat with Senator Vare's brother, recently deceased, and some personal things he told me in his quiet way, with no thought that it would ever reach this point of expression at this time by me, little things that he did for those poor unfortunate people in Philadelphia which were never recorded in the newspapers, never given any publicity whatsoever, but it showed that within that breast there was pity and a kind heart. And then I remember Senator Whitten when I was on the other side of the chamber, how devoted was his good wife to him when he seemed to have the touch of death upon him. Those men are gone. We too will have to go some day, but before we go let us fully appreciate what loyal friendship is. I think the cardinal virtues of man are courage, honesty and loyal friendship. I love to think of a loyal friend as Emerson has said, that he is the masterpiece of nature. And I love to recall, in substance, what Shakespeare has said: "The friends thou hast, on their adoption tried, grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel". I can recall the days in history when Socrates, the great man of wisdom, surrounded by the youthful men to gain knowldege, and after having built a little home some one asked him why he built such a small home. "Ah" he said "if I could only fill that home with true friends". And we remember the story of Damon and Pythias, the great sacrifice Damon was willing to make because Pythias was detained on the voyage by shipwreck and storm and he arrived at the last moment and practically saved the life of Damon and the Emperor who was going to execute him revoke that order of execution and spared the lives of both of them and remarked that he only wished he had such a true friend as Pythias.

So true friendship is sweeter far than life, and to this distinguished Chairman of the Judiciary General Committee, not that we want him to shuffle off this mortal coil soon, we know it has to come, but we want his life to be prolonged, and when he joins that innumerable caravan which goes to that bourne from which no man ever returns, if I had to write his epitaph, and I think I speak for all the members of that committee, I would write an epitaph in the language of Halleck when he said "Green be the turf o'er thee, friend of my better days, none knew thee but to love thee, none named but to praise".

So in conclusion I desire to present to you a check and you can go to the bank and get the gold, and when you and Mrs. Weaver sit down and solve the problem of the sort of gift you are going to purchase in remembrance of us and our esteem for you that in the future as you travel along life's pathway those shadows that we must inevitably have shall be dancing sunbeams always.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. President, the Senator from Delaware, Mr. MacDade, and my other fellow Senators: At the beginning, I want to remember that I owe my place first of all to the distinguished retiring President Pro Tempore of the Senate, who just now takes his seat again. I would not have had the office if he had not had it in his heart to give it to me, as I would not have had the position two years before if my friend, the Senator from Potter, Mr. Baldwin, had not also chosen to put me where I am. As I walk along I catch things in one way or the other perhaps which may not be intended for me, yet I am quite certain that I overheard something within the last few days that leads me very strongly to believe that probably the prime mover in this gift was another Senator, who has seen fit to move from his seat, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus. He likes to have fun at my expense very frequently but I am certain that I have no better friend in this body than Senator Salus and I rather suspect that perhaps he was the prime mover in the matter. I would be ungrateful, I think, and not just quite as bright as some people give me credit to be if I should not acknowledge that fact. I think perhaps I ought to advert to the fact that a check has been given to me instead of a gift such as came to the two distinguished Senators who preceded me. I think the explanation of this lies in the fact that when the matter was started I was away just at that time and there was so little time left that the members of the committee could not and did not feel like taking it on themselves to buy something without having a decision on my part and so the matter has been left in this way. It would be very inapt and very indelicate indeed if this money should be used for any of my private wants, if it should be used for any other purpose in the world except to buy something, primarily, I think, that Mrs. Weaver could enjoy even more than I, and when that shall have been bought I assure you members of the committee that you will be told what has been bought by this highly prized gift.

Since other people have taken time to say something perhaps I may be indulged in saying a few thoughts that came into my mind. I have enjoyed the work here in my way just as much as any person else. A fellow of my disposition, a little bit high strung and with nerves, who comes sometimes to the breaking point must be given some little latitude, he must have latitude to do as the old farmer said he was wont to do with his dog that annoyed some of the people on the outskirts of the town. They went to him and said "you will have to make your dog quit barking at the moon." He said "oh no, I won't do anything of the kind." "Why won't you?" "Oh well, it does not hurt the moon and it seems to please the dog." Now that is about all it amounts to usually in my case.

I have had unusual pleasure in presiding over the Committee of Judiciary General. I may say for the members of that Committee who are laymen and who have not studied law that as laymen they are the most able set of men that I have found anywhere sitting on questions primarily the work of lawyers to decide. I want to say something about a large majority of the committee, and they are lawyers, that in these days we are used to hearing the appellate courts and the other courts and the bar generally denounced by people. They seem to take delight in making cruel, unkind and I think very unjust remarks of the courts the whole way down, beginning at the Supreme Court. To me there has always been something of reverence in my mind and heart for the courts, and I would be very sorry ever to find myself in a frame of mind when I should seem to feel otherwise about the courts, beginning at the highest and going down to the lowest. It must be admitted, in the interest of fairness and honesty, that judges are on the bench here and there who do not rise to the high standard which we have a right to expect of them, and we have members of the bar here and there who sometimes forget the solemn oath they have taken and the great obligations resting upon them, but afer I have admitted that I want to insist that there is no higher-minded class of people in the world than the men who sit on the benches, from the Supreme Court down, and the rank and file of the members of the bar. Personally I have become pretty well filled up with the denunciations that I have heard from time to time. I call your attention to some of the lessons of the history. I can remember of lawyers in the past that may not call for the greatest admiration of mankind, but let me call your attention to that somewhat fiery member of the Council who was sent out after King Louis XVI and his wife had been detained in their flight, and he rode back with them, he had been, as I say, somewhat of a fiery orator, he came under the refining influence of that hapless queen, and who on account of this influence that had been brought to bear on him later lost his head by the guillotine. I want to say to you that although I have very great admiration for the French people, that is a scene in French life from which I hide my face. It is a shame to think that a humanity would ever find in its heart to execute a man for the defense of any hapless king.

Then again I want to call your attention to that other man John Somers, who made that memorable defense of the Bishops of Oxford. In his three minute speech he made the most distinguished speech in the history of English jurisprudence. Do we not honor him for that? As we go down into our history and think of one man of all the other thousands of cases and see rising up before us William M. Evarts in his defence of Andrew Johnson, and he never should have been treated as he was. And perhaps the most distinguished lawyer in the country comes forward and joins in his defence. And so we find these men the whode way down and I cannot understand why the ministry, why any other class of people, should indulge in these general tirades of abuse of the profession as a profession. There is something about the Supreme Court to reverence. It is the final goal of our efforts. And so it is with everything else that is great. I wonder if there is any man here who does not instinctively bow himself a little bit when he comes to any man in the ministry who is deserving. There are men in the ministry, as there are lawyers, who are not what they ought to be, and yet we also if we have any natural reverence for the ministry, whether he be Jewish Rabbi, Catholic Priest or Protestant clergyman, every man shows instinctively honor and respect for that man, whether he agrees with that particular form or not.

Now my friends, members of the Committee, I was thinking, before my friend Senator Craig of Beaver spoke of Swan Songs, there was floating before my eyes, in spite of myself, the scene in "Lohengrin" where Jean Dereske used to float down the stream, he came on the stage singing the beautiful song, the "Swan Song," and my friend the Senator from Delaware also spoke of it, and this is as well my "Swan Song," and while I am speaking it brings up in my heart a feeling of sadness, that even resembles sorrow. It is just that feeling that comes to you at twilight. I can scarcely bear to think of the fact. The time I have been spending here has not inured to the benefit of my exchequer, but as I say, when I shut my eyes in the evening, as the dusk comes on, I cannot bear to think of the fact that I will not likely be back again and see these intimate and close friends whom I have known so well and who have been so kind. In conclusion I want to thank you gentlemen for this gift. I assure you again that it will be used for the purpose that you men have in mind.

ADJOURNMENT SINE DIE.

The PRESIDENT. This being the day and hour fixed by concurrent resolution for the final adjournment, and the hour of twelve o'clock noon having arrived, I hereby declare the Senate adjourned sine die.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1923.

The House met at 2:30 o'clock A. M.

PRAYER.

The SPEAKER (C. J. Goodnough) in the Chair.

Hon. Lorenzo D. Thomas, a member of the House, offered the following prayer:

Our Father who art in Heaven, we come before Thee at this time, even in the midst of these festivities which the occasion has brought about, earnestly asking Thee that Thou wouldst cause us to pause for a moment and look to Thee for Thy guidance and Thy direction, which we so much need in this, the last day of this legislative session. Grant, Father, that we may conduct the affairs of the state in such manner as to reflect credit and honor upon the sovereign people. Help us to do this in the name of the One who has led us thus far, and who stands pledged to keep us so long as we are faithful to the tenants of real rightousness. These things we ask in His name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings when, on motion of Mr. Bluett, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

NAYS—1.

Rhodes,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1369 (Senate Bill No. 119), as follows:

An Act creating the office of controller in counties of the first second third fourth and fifth classes prescribing his powers and duties imposing certain duties upon such county commissioners and county treasurers and abolishing the office of county auditor

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the office of county controller is hereby established in each county of the Commonwealth of the second third fourth and fifth classes At the municipal election in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three and every four years thereafter there shall be elected in each of said counties not having a controller and in each of the counties where the term of the county controller then in office expires on the first Monday of January next succeeding a controller who shall hold office for a term of four years from the first Monday of January next succeeding such election At the municipal election in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five and every four years thereafter there shall be elected in each of said counties where the term of county controller then in office expires on the first Monday of January next succeeding a controller for a term of four years from the first Monday of January next succeeding such election Whenever any county shall hereafter come within any of the classes of counties to which this act applies there shall be elected in such county at the first municipal election thereafter and every four years thereafter a controller who shall hold his office for a term of four years from the first Monday of January next succeeding his election The controller of each county shall hold his respective term of office until his successor shall be duly elected and qualified if he shall so long behave himself well In any of said counties not having a controller at the date of the passage of this act and in any of said counties hereinafter coming within the provisions of this act the office of county auditor shall be abolished from and after the date when the controller herein provided for shall commence his term of office

Section 2 No person holding any office under the United States shall be eligible to the office of controller during his continuance in office nor until one year thereafter No county commissioner county treasurer prothonotary register of wills clerk of the courts recorder of deeds sheriff or district attorney or their chief clerks or deputies shall be eligible to the office of county controller until two years after the expiration of their respective terms of office but a controller shall always be eligible to re-election or appointment

Section 3 Before entering upon the duties of his office the controller shall give bond to the county in which he may be elected with at least two sufficient sureties or with corporate surety in the sum of twenty thousand dollars to be approved by the court of common pleas of said county conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties and those of his deputies. The cost and expense of procuring any bond shall be paid by the county from the county treasury The controller and his deputies and clerks shall also each take and subscribe the oath or affirmation as prescribed by article seven of the Constitution and a wilful violation of said oath shall constitute perjury. The oaths and the bond herein provided for shall be recorded in the recorder's office of the proper county and shall then be filed and kept in the county commissioners' office Records thereof or certified copies of the same may be used in evidence in all judicial proceedings with the same force and effect as the original.

Section 4 The Governor shall appoint a person in each county wherein this act is or becomes operative to act as controller for such county until his successor in office is duly elected and qualified and shall also appoint a suitable person to fill any vacancy that may occur by death resignation or removal from office of the controller in any county wherein this act is or becomes operative

Section 5 The controller may appoint a solicitor deputy controller and such other clerks as may be necessary for the work of his office and the proper auditing of accounts The salary of such solicitor deputy and clerks shall be fixed by the county commissioners and the county controller in the manner now provided by law The deputy controller shall during the necessary or temporary absence of the controller or in the case of a vacancy in said office have the same powers and perform the same duties as are herein provided for the office of controller

Section 6 The controller shall have general supervision and control of the financial affairs of the county and of the accounts and official acts of all officers or other persons who shall collect receive or distribute the public moneys of the county or who shall be charged with the management or custody thereof. He may at any time require from any of them in writing an acount of all moneys or property which may have came into their control He shall immediately upon the discovery of any default or discrepancy report the same to the county commissioners and to the court of common pleas of the county and shall take immediate measures to secure the public moneys or property and to secure the removal of the delinquent party if in office and not removed by the county commissioners

Section 7 The controller shall cause to be kept a full and regular set of books in detail by double entry of all the financial operations of the county embracing as many accounts under separate titles as may be necessary to show distinctly and separately all the property of the county its receipts and expenditures and all debts and accounts due the county officers or others the amount raised from each source of revenue and the expenditures in detail and classified with reference to the objects thereof He shall prescribe the form and manner of keeping the books and papers used by each of the officers of said county in connection with the financial affairs of their offices He shall on or before the first day of February annually deliver to the county commissioners in writing a detailed estimate of the expenditures for the legitimate purposes of the county for the current year including interests due and to fall due on the lawful debts of the county bearing interest The commissioners shall on or before the fifteenth day of February thereafter fix such rate of taxation upon the valuation of the property of the county as will raise sufficient sums to meet the said expenditures The commissioners shall not by contract or otherwise increase the expenditures of the county in any year to an amount beyond the taxes assessed for the said year

Section 8 The controller shall in the month of January in each year make a report verified by oath or affirmation to the court of common pleas of the county of all receipts and expenditures of the county for the preceding year in detail and classified as required by the seventh section of this act Such report shall also contain a full statement of the financial condition of the county The report shall be published one time in such newspapers published in the county as the controller may direct The aggregate cost of such publication shall not in any one year exceed in the case of the second and third class counties fifteen hundred dollars and in the case of the fourth and fifth class counties one thousand dollars which shall be paid out of the county treasury

Section 9 The controller shall keep his office in a room or rooms of the court house or city hall of the county and such room or rooms shall be furnished at the expense of the county The controller shall furnish to the county commissioners whenever required by them a detailed account of any officer or other person having in his possession or under his control funds belonging to the county He shall at all times between the hours of ten o'clock ante meridian and two o'clock post meridian give information respecting any of said accounts to any taxpayer of the county demanding the same

Section 10 The controller shall scrutinize audit and decide on all bills claims and demands whatsoever against the county All persons having such claims shall first present the same to the controller and if required make oath or affirmation before him to the correctness thereof He may if he deems it necessary require evidence by oath or affirmation of the claimant or other persons that the claim is legally due and that the supplies work or services for which payment is claimed have been furnished or performed under legal authority He shall inquire and ascertain whether any officer or agent of the county is interested in the contract under which any claim may arise or has received or is to receive any commission consideration or gratuity relating thereto or whether there has been any evasion of the twelfth section of this act by making two or more contracts for small amounts which should have been in one contract If he shall find that there has been any evasion or that any such officer or agent is so interested he shall refuse to approve the claim All claims which he shall find legally due he shall approve and certify to the county commissioners All claims which he shall find or believe to be not legally due he shall disapprove He shall countersign all receipts given by the county treasurer to persons paying money into the treasury and keep an accurate record of the same

Section 11 After the controller shall have assumed the duties of his office it shall be unlawful for the county commissioners of such county to draw any warrant on the county treasury for the payment of any debt claim or demand whatsoever unless the same has been audited and approved by the controller as provided in this act Except that separate warrants for the payment of fees of jurors witnesses criers and tipstaves of the several courts of the county which amounts shall be ascertained by the several courts of the county and entered upon the records thereof shall be duly certified by the respective clerks of the courts to the county commissioners after having first been sworn to before the controller for preservation as soon as the warrants are issued

Section 12 That from and after the passage of this act all contracts made by the county commissioners of said counties involving an expenditure exceeding three hundred dollars shall be in writing and shall be awarded only with the approval of the controller and shall immediately after their execution be filed with the controller but no contracts shall be made nor the payment thereof certified by the controller for over three hundred dollars unless when made with the lowest and best bidder after due notice to be published by the controller when directed by the commissioners if he approve the purpose of the proposals invited all bids to be received by the controller and to be in his presence opened by the commissioners and the contracts awarded subject to approval by the controller and of which awards the controller shall keep a record and he shall certify no warrants for contracts not made agreeably thereto All bids shall immediately after they are opened be filed with and be preserved by the controller

Section 13 All warrants drawn on the county treasurer by the county commissioners on certificates as provided in the tenth eleventh and twelfth sections of this act shall be countersigned by the controller and he shall keep a correct register thereof noting (a) the number (b) the date and amount of each (c) date of payment and (d) to whom and for what issued and shall report to the commissioners monthly or oftener if required by them the amount of outstanding warrants registered and the amount of money in the treasury

Section 15 No county treasurer shall pay any moneys out of the county treasury except on warrant drawn by a majority of the county commissioners and countersigned by the controller The books of the county treasurer shall at all times during office hours be open to the inspection of the controller and the county treasurer shall report daily to the controller all moneys received by him for the county the person by whom and on what account they were paid The county treasurer shall cancel all warrants when paid by distinctly spearing or cutting them He shall also report daily all moneys paid out by him giving the number of the warrant and the party to whom paid and shall deliver the warrants to the controller who shall cancel the same All outstanding warrants issued before any controller enters upon the duties of his office shall be presented to him as other claims against the county Provided That in counties to which this act applies wherein the poor tax is paid into the county treasury the county treasurer shall keep a separate account of such poor tax received by him and pay out the same upon warrants drawn by a majority of the directors of the poor of the county

Section 16 All duties devolved and powers conferred on the county auditors by the act of April fifteenth one thousand eight hundred and thirty-four (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and thirty-seven) entitled "An act relating to counties and townships and county and township officers" shall be performed and exercised by the controller so far as regards county accounts and State taxes for which the county is or may be liable All other accounts with the Commonwealth shall be audited by the auditor of accounts of prothonotaries clerks et cetera appointed by the court of common pleas under the act of April twenty-first one thousand eight hundred and forty-six and its amendments and supplements The report required by the eighth section of this act shall have the same effect as the report of auditors under the said act of April fifteenth one thousand eight hundred and thirty-four with like rights of appeal therefrom

Section 17 The act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and three) entitled "An act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditor in said counties" and the several amendments thereto are hereby repealed except so far as they relate to the counties of the first class but such repeal shall not affect the term of any county controller in office at the time of the passage of this act and all such officers in office shall hold their respective offices until the expiration of their respective terms and shall have the powers perform the duties and be subject to the limitations and restrictions provided for by this act

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker, I rise to inquire whether there is any member of the House who can explain why Senate Bill No. 119 now under consideration is here for passage and why we should vote for it. It contains provisions of two or three bills which the House has defeated in the past week, and I wonder if there is somebody here who can explain the merits of it to us.

Mr. WHITEMAN. Mr. Speaker, it may not seem to come with good grace to try to answer the gentleman's question, inasmuch as a part of this bill would affect the business in which I happen to be engaged. As I under stand this bill, however, members of the House, it virtually is a codification of the laws applying to county controllers, and its passage is urged very earnestly by the controllers themselves. It does make certain changes in the laws as at present existing, but in the main, it is a codification and a consolidation of laws already enacted. For example, it contains the law which this House has passed, and which I understand is now with the Governor, exempting the advertising of contracts from one to three hundred dollars. It also contains a clause allowing $1500 instead of $100 for the advertising of the controllers' report. That is due to the fact that in the larger counties where the report is quite voluminous it has been found impossible to advertise it at the regular rate the $1000 limit. I understand that this is one of the principal changes made in the bill.

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if you will look at Senate Bill No. 119 you will find that by the amendment the other day the counties of the first class were eliminated so that it is no longer applicable to them. You will find, however, on page 4 of the act, that while the objection which was made by Mr. Alexander has been changed, the other change made was that the controller may now appoint a solicitor and clerk, and no longer is compelled to. On page 8 is the most serious objection, and that is that no contract shall be awarded without the majority vote of the commissioner and the controller acting jointly. This has been amended in section 12, the new section, that all contracts made by the county commissioners shall be in writing and awarded only with the approval of the controller. That makes the controller a fourth commissioner, and those of you who are interested in county government outside of Philadelphia know that we have three commissioners, and by making a controller the man who has the right to approve contracts, you make him a fourth commissioner, and it will require three to put anything over because three is the only constitutional majority, the only mathematical majority of four. If someone can explain that away I am perfectly willing to vote for the act as now amended, but that is the very thing that Mr. Gibbons amended in the other act of Senator Joyce a short time ago, by taking out the authority of the controller, to make contracts with the commissioners. He has not right, he is only an auditor, he is only a controller, he is not a commissioner, for that reason, I am sorry to say, I am compelled to vote against the whole act and I think every man outside of the county of Philadelphia should consider whether he can vote for this, subject always to the approval of the controller on their contract duty.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

(SPECIAL ORDER.)

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the special order of the day at this time, bill on third reading and final passage.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1772 (Senate Bill No. 1073), entitled:

An Act to amend section three hundred and one and sections three hundred and six and three hundred and seven as amended of an act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred and thirty-six) entitled "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

On the question,

Shall the bill finally?

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, this is Senate Bill No. 1073, being an amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915. I am not prepared to discuss the amendments to this bill in detail for the reason that I scarcely have an opportunity to study them and compare them with the present act, but this much I do know, that the bill before us increases the cost of workmen's compensation to a considerable extent I have been told at least twenty-five per cent above the present cost of workmen's compensation under the present law. Mr. Speaker, this bill came in here in the closing days of the session and very little opportunity has been given the members of the House to study the bill. I know that you have been told that the act provides amendments providing for only a slight increase. That is not true, they increase the cost of this insurance very considerably. Now, I wish to say, members of the House, that the enactment of this bill at this time is practically impossible for the reason that the bill contains, as laid before us, a number of errors in quoting the act which it seeks to amend. I would call your attention to page 5, line 16, in quoting the act which it seeks to amend, it refers to the act approved the twenty-eighth day of March, 1923. As a matter of fact, the act was approved on the twenty-eighth day of March, 1915. There are several other errors in the bill. Now, Mr. Speaker, there have been a number of burdens laid on industry during this present session of the Legislature. For instance, industry has been called upon, business has been called upon to pay a major share of the deficit, and we have passed a bill here which aims to raise some ten or twelve or fifteen million dollars in revenue which is to be assessed directly against business. We have passed in this session the old pension act which will ultimately cost business in this State many millions of dollars. I have heard it said perhaps as much as twelve or fifteen millions of dollars a year. That must be provided for in the future. Now, I think that this amendment at this time is wholly unjustified and I trust that the members of the House will see it in that light and vote the bill down.

Mr. DAVID FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to state that I am not going into details with reference to this bill, but will briefly outline some of its features, as I know you are all desirous of getting away from here. In the first place we don't need to fear so much the old age pension because that is not providing a great deal, only $25,000 which is appropriated by the state. So far as a few typographical errors that are in it are concerned, I am satisfied to leave that to the legal talent that has drawn up this bill. Instead of increasing the amount by 25 percent I will read you a report that it will only increase 20 percent. This comes from G. C. Kelly of the Compensation Rate Inspection Bureau. In the first place the amount is changed from $12.00 to $15.00 per week and if you will take $15.00 at the present time it will not be as good as $12.00 was in 1915 when the act was passed. So in line with the cost of living, we have not asked for really a sufficient amount to give us the same line of compensation we had in 1915. In regards to the waiting period we are behind most all of the states in the United States. In some states it is down as low as 3 days, and we are one of the very few states on the 10 day basis. The maximum and the minimum is changed. The minimum rate is only changed from 6 to 7. These are the outstanding features in the bill and I want to say to you that I believe it would be useless to discuss this bill any longer as each and every one of you is familiar with the terms of this bill. I ask each and every Member to vote in favor of this bill today.

Mr. WHEELER. Mr.. Speaker, I feel it my duty to speak briefly on this bill. I wish to say that when I first considered the question I expected to vote for the compensation bill, however, I considered the matter thoroughly and I propose to vote no upon this proposition at this time. I am not speaking as an employer. I don't think the bill should be treated either from the standpoint of an employee. An employer who opposes this bill does, of course, appear to be prejudiced because he has a selfish interest in it, and similarly the employe has a selfish interest in point of the whole people of the state. Now, I would ask you to remember when you consider how you are going to vote, particularly those members who have the good fortune to live in the country in the rural districts, that the cost of compensation adds to the cost of business. Business costs increase the price of the article. The cost of living is increasing and this, in turn, affects very seriously the farmer and the other classes in the state who are not directly identified either with the employer or the employee. I wish to say there is no argument about the principal of compensation. I believe that every one is agreed that workmen's compensation is an absolute necessity and an excellent thing, but at the same time the relations between the employer and the employee are something that cannot be settled simply by legislation. You must strike a fair basis and go along on that. The interests of the employer and the employee are in a sense identical. If either attempts to extract more than its due share of the benefits of production then that constitutes encroachment. Now, the question is for us to determine whether this increase in the cost of compensation does constitute at this time such an encroachment. It is not a question of whether you believe ultimately that the rates should be increased, it is a question whether this constitutes merely one step in a financial series of which the logical end would be 100% compensation. Now, I feel that you believe that this bill represents the demand of a certain group in the state, not a wide spread demand, but that it represents the demand of a small group, a certain group in the legislature which has given little and asked much. If you believe that, I believe that you should vote no on this bill.

Mr. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Flynn, Sprowl, Parkinson, Heffran, Walker, Swartz, Vickerman, Weimer, Orr, Harer, Haws, Lucas, Dunn, Craig, Heyburn, Bidelspacher, Spangler, Hetrick, Eaches, Connor, Joseph Marcus, Huber, and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the ayes and nayes were taken.

Mr. HEFFRAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1782, (Senate Bill No. 1524), as follows:

An Act to amend section two of the act approved the tenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and seventy-three) entitled "An Act providing for the burial of certain persons who are have been or shall be soldiers sailors or marines designated as 'deceased service men' defining the term 'deceased service man' and authorizing county commissioners to provide headstones markers and burial plots for such deceased service men at the expense of the county in which they shall die or have a legal residence at the time of their death"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section two of the act approved the tenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and seventy-three) entitled "An Act providing for the burial of certain persons who are have been or shall be soldiers sailors or marines designated as 'deceased service men' defining the term 'deceased service man' and authorizing county commissioners to provide headstones markers and burial plots for such deceased service men at the expense of the county in which they shall die or have a legal residence at the time of their death" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 2 The county commissioners of each county in this State are hereby authorized and directed to expend the sum of seventy-five dollars ($75.00) toward the funeral expenses of any such deceased service man Provided however That such county commissioners shall not contribute any moneys toward the funeral expenses of any such deceased service men where the total expense of any such funeral including said allowance of seventy-five dollars ($75.00) shall exceed Four (three) Hundred Dollars ($300.00) ($400.00) nor unless application for the payment of such moneys shall be made within one year after the date of the burial of such deceased service man

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as folows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1720, (Senate Bill No. 241), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and seven) entitled "An Act relating to municipal improvements and the collecting of assessments therefor"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STONER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if I understand this bill it does not seem to be one that should be passed. The bill apparently seeks to amend the borough act of 1915 which provides, in so far as I have seen, that a majority of interests are assessed the cost. Under the law as it now exists in most cases the improvement of the street in the nature controlled in this act requires a petition signed by both the majority in interest and property and that is very important. Now this bill seeks to do away apparently with the majority in property and requires only a majority in interest, so that a situation might arise and would arise, that one man, the owner of property could enforce the improvement of a street against a large majority and it is very doubtful as to whether such a measure is advisable. Again the act seems to be one of those acts which by its provisions deprives a property owner of the right to appeal in that it provides that upon a two-thirds vote of counsel the property owner shall pay by the foot front rule. These acts are always questionable and I don't think the right of appeal should be denied in any case, therefore, I believe the bill is bad.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1771 (Senate Bill No. 1233), entitled:

An Act validating ordinances passed by councils of cities of the third class and not signed by the mayor or attested by the city clerk thereof and validating all acts done in pursuance of such ordinances

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STONER. I would like to ask anybody in this House who can explain this bill what the effect will be if a penal ordinance was passed under this act.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. STONER. Mr. Speaker, having entirely misapprehended Senate Bill 1233, and finding it is simply a validating act, I move you that the vote by which House Bill 1771 (Senate Bill 1233) file folio 5303 entitled:

> An Act validating ordinances passed by councils of cities of the third class and not signed by the mayor or attested by the city clerk thereof and validating all acts done in pursuance of such ordinances was defeated be reconsidered.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill which was defeated a few minutes ago was misunderstood as to the wording of the act. This act provides that ordinance heretofore passed, and that does not appear in the first line where it really should. Therefore it appears at first glance that it referred to ordinances, present, past and future, which would make a bad bill, but this bill does say further down all ordinances passed prior to the passage of this act. In other words in many instances a lien is made, bonds are issued, and it is ascertained subsequently that there is some error in the ordinance, a "t" has not been crossed or an "i" dotted or something of that kind. Every session of the legislature has a validating act such as this is, that is all this is just a validating act.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker I am very glad at this late day that the gentleman from Delaware has been converted to validating acts. I am rather inclined to think that the great game of ball that he pitched yesterday has brought about new order in his mental processes. Therefore, I am happy to support this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE DISCHARGED.

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Committee of Conference be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 1360, entitled:

> An Act to amend section six of the act approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws one thousand fifty-five) entitled "An act authorizing the release on probation of certain convicts instead of imposing sentences the appointment of probation and parole officers and the payment of their salaries and expenses regulating the manner of sentencing convicts in certain cases and providing for their release on parole their conviction of crime during parole and their rearrest and reconviction for breach of parole and extending the powers and duties of boards of prison inspectors of penitentiaries"

Mr. HARER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, that the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1707 (Senate Bill No. 1061), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of an act approved the fifth day of April one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws forty-six) entitled "An act authorizing executors administrators guardians and other trustees to invest trust funds in farm loan bonds issued by Federal Land Banks under the provisions of the act of Congress of the United States of July seventeenth one thousand nine hundred and sixteen its amendments or supplements" extending the act to bonds issued by Joint Stock Land Banks

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. D. J. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the record on Senate Bill No. 1163, which we considered last night, shows me as voting in the negative. It was my purpose to vote in the affirmative on this bill because I feel that it is a very meritorious bill, and should certainly have the support of this House. Therefore, I move that the vote by which this bill was defeated be reconsidered.

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

MOTION TO RECONSIDER LAID ON THE TABLE.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker, I move that this motion be laid upon the table.

Mr. JOSEPH C. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

SENATE MESSAGE.

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 570.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses on Senate Bill, numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 570.

An Act providing for the merging of moneys held in certain special funds in the State Treasury with moneys in the general fund providing for the use of all moneys in the general fund for the payment of appropriations and for the payment from the general fund of moneys appropriated and dedicated for special purposes

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL No. 570.

Mr. HARER called up the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 570.

The report as agreed upon was read as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL 570

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 570, entitled: "An Act providing for the merging of moneys held in certain special funds in the State Treasury with moneys in the general fund, providing for the use of all moneys in the general fund for the payment of appropriations and for the payment from the general fund of moneys appropriated and dedicated for special purposes," respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

NAYS—1.

Alexander,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, that the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED SENATE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 1251.

An Act making an appropriation to the Western State Hospital for the Insane at Torrance.

Said bill having been recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment. The vote had on final passage and third reading on said bill was reconsidered in the Senate and the bill amended, in which amendments the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title by striking out after the word "the" the words "Trustees of the"

Section 1, line 7, after the word "the" strike out "Board of trustees of the"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, in order that the members of the House may know why I am voting "no" on each one of these amendments, I don't know whether they have been considered or not, but in each one of these bills they have inserted an amendment cutting out "trustees" to a certain state hospital for instance, and the payment thereof is made to a Hospital. It seems to me that the only legal and proper way to pay this money is to the trustees, and here we are cutting the trustees out or the board of managers out, whichever it may be. I cannot understand it, and it seems to me before anything further is done we should find out why this change is made.

Mr. HARER. Mr. Speaker, these amendments were put in the Senate. The bills were recalled at the request of the Governor, and the amendments were submitted by the representative of the Governor as chairman of this committee. I have tried to find out what it means, and what the legal effect of it would be in this particular. I have just spoken with the Auditor General, and he cannot explain it to me, so I am at a loss to understand the matter, and therefore cannot make any further explanation to you.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House non-concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me if the money is made payable to the hospital that the trustees can get the money.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that if we don't concur in these amendments, although I confess I don't know the purpose of the amendment, it may be that these bills will be lost in the legislative jamb and these hospitals will get nothing. Why not defer action upon the bills until we can learn from the Attorney General's office and the Chief Executive's office why this is done. There may be some explanation for it. I therefore ask the gentleman to withdraw his motion and that we defer action on it until we have some information.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, as I stated a moment ago, I cannot see any objection to the phraeology in naming the hospital than the trustees. We have cases constantly where people make a request to a hospital or charitable institution and they do not make it to the trustees. As a rule, they make it to the particular institution, and the trustees of that institution are the executive officers of the same, and are the ones to whom the money is paid. So, it would be in a case of this character.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I must confess that personally, I agree with the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler, and also with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Golder. If you give money to the hospital, this money going to the hospital is to be administered by the board of trustees, and I see no difference in striking out this word "trustee" at the present time. I very much fear if we don't strike out the word "trustee", as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Golder, has said, some of these bills may be lost. It seems to me it would be a little better to go ahead with that vocabulary that has been suggested, because I can see no possible harm that could happen through it.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to the argument of the gentleman from Philadelphia and the gentleman from York, and I think most likely, after a second thought, that this is in line with the Code which provides that all of these payments shall be made to the Public Welfare Commission, and perhaps for some reason or other, unknown to us, we are voting for something, we don't know why, and I raise this question so that the members who want to know why, this is one way to find out. That was my only reason for making the motion.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

MOTION LAID ON THE TABLE.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the motion be laid upon the table.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question re-curring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 13, 1923.

Whereas, Doctor Joseph Krauskropf of Philadelphia, noted educator, humanitarian, founder of the National Farm School at Doylestown, and Rabbi of the Keneseth Israel Temple at Philadelphia, died on the twelfth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and

Whereas, It is fitting and proper that this General Assembly should pause for a moment in its labors and contemplate the passing of this emenent American, whose life has made an indelible impress upon the Commonwealth, and

Whereas, When the stream of immigration of Russian Jewish refugees from the pogrom-stricken steppes was at its height, in one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, Dr. Joseph Krauskropf went into the Pale in Russia to study the plight of his co-religionists, and made a tour of the agricultural colonies there, and

Whereas, He was so strongly impressed by the Jewish Agricultural School at Odessa and its results, that upon his return he founded the National Farm School at Doylestown, one of the largest institutions of its kind in America today, and a monument to his memory, and has been its president from the day of its foundation, and

Whereas, Shortly after the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, in one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, he was appointed by the National Relief Commission to be one of the special commissioners to visit army camps and cantonments in the United States and Cuba and to render such relief as was found to be necessary, and

Whereas, Upon the outbreak of the War with Germany in one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, he was appointed a National Food Director in charge of the Jewish people and served with credit and distinction, and

Whereas, During the past few years his time has been devoted chiefly to the direction of the affairs of the National Farm School at Doylestown, and

Whereas, In spite of failing health and strict orders from his physicians, Dr. Krauskopf insisted upon continuing his manifold activities, and it was not until forced to do so by a breakdown that he consented to take a rest, and

Whereas, By his unfailing devotion to, and his indefatigable work in the performance of the duties he assumed, he died a martyr to his congregation and his school, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That in the death of Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, the Commonwealth has lost an eminent citizen, an eloquent preacher, a deep thinker, a profound scholar and a mighty influence for civic betterment. That although eminently a leader of his Race, he was pre-eminently a Staunch, patriotic and virile American, paying unswerving allegiance and rendering unfaultering devotion to the land of his adoption, that he was a rare citizen of usefulness unquestioned, of ability most marked, of learning most profound and in his devotion to duty, he faltered not, until at the end when his arduous labors in the service of his fellowmen undermined his health, he laid down his life for his friends; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, and that a copy thereof duly certified by the proper officers of the Senate and House of Representatives be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

SENATE MESSAGE.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, June 14, 1923.

Whereas, The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, adopted a joint resolution which provided for the appointment of a committee to arrange for an International Exhibition to be held in Philadelphia in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of American Independence, and

Whereas, The said General Assembly has with great reluctance found it necessary to refuse to make an appropriation to financially assist in the proper celebration of the said anniversary by reason of the urgent need of all the available revenues of the State during the next two years to secure the proper functioning of the Commonwealth and its various agencies, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly hereby reaffirms its interest in the success of the said celebration, extends to the Independence Celebration Commission its congratulations upon the magnitude of the work already accomplished by them and expresses the hope that they may proceed with their plans and preparations for the holding of a celebration, commensurate in size and magnitude with the important historical occasion it is to celebrate and the great city in which it is to be held.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Independence Celebration Commission.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE.

SENATE RECEDES FROM AMENDMENTS MADE TO HOUSE BILL.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced informed that the Senate has receded from its amendments on page 3 section 2, lines 9 to 13, inclusive, non-concurred in by the House of Representatives to House Bill No. 81, entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the executive judicial and legislative departments of the Commonwealth interest on the pubilc debt and the support of the public schools for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments from which the Senate has receded.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 2, page 3 by striking out lines 9 to 13 inclusive as follows: "For the payment of expenses incurred by and under the direction of the Governor for the enforcement of the laws of this Commonwealth two years the sum of Two hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars."

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which the House refused to concur in the amendments made by the Senate be reconsidered.

Mr. BALDI. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question..

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate and from which it has not receded?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like if you would kindly yield the Chair to Mr. Armstrong of Armstrong, for the purpose of holding a special session.

The SPEAKER. It is requested that the Chair yield to the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Armstrong.

MR. ARMSTRONG IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The time of final adjournment of this House being near, we will now receive the report of the special committee.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Heffernan.

PRESENTATION OF CEREMONIES.

Mr. HEFFERMAN. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I would ask your attention just for a moment or two. Owing to my throat being so sore from yesterday's game, it is impossible for me to speak very loud, but at this time I would like to announce that a special committee was appointed, just as special committees have been appointed in the past, for the purpose of going among the membership of the House and securing from them their little aid, whatever it might be, toward giving some slight remembrance to those who have carried on the business of the House during the session. The committee that has charge, or had charge of the soliciting of the subscriptions is now prepared to show the results of their work. I only wish that my voice was in condition that I could talk more plainly to you, but I will ask you just to bear with me for a moment or two.

My good friends, it has been very properly said that during the time when we are born until we pass away, that our lives are nothing more or less than, I might say, a bundle of incidents. There are many things that we do, some of them good, some of them bad, some of them indifferent. The membership of this House, as it now exists, sizes up very favorably with all the other Houses of this Legislature that have met here during the past, especially during the seven years that I have been here; and you ought to be congratulated. You have done your work; you have done it as you saw fit, for which you are to be congratulated. But there is always a tinge of sadness about these things. We come here strangers to one another and we meet each other and we become what we might term good, firm, steadfast friends. And after being with each other and doing business in this House for a period of five or six months, interesting ourselves in the government and its welfare, there does come a time when we must clasp each other by the hand and go our respective ways throughout the sixty-seven counties of the State, and the hour for that has arrived. The time has arrived, ladies and gentlemen of this House, when we must say goodby to each other; and I hope and pray that as the years pass by, that your recollections and your fond memories will hark back to this House, to the Speaker and to the men at the desk, to the ladies and gentlemen of the House and to the newspapermen who have done their duty in their own way. Very true, there are times, possibly, when things do not measure up to their satisfaction. However, we have done our duty as we saw fit, and so now, it is my privilege to address the Speaker of the House, and let me say to you that while we have had good Speakers in the past, there has never been one who has been more fair or more honorable in his transactions than the Speaker of this House of Representatives, Honorable C. J. Goodnough. Mr. Speaker, through the kindness of the members of the House, we have a little trinket here for you. It is not very much, but it means much to you, I know, because it comes from the generosity and the hearts of the members who have worked with you during the present session. It is what we consider a very beautiful diamond. The diamond is a karat that is bordered on two points, something that I know you will esteem just as we do in presenting it to you; and we hope that every time you look at it you will recall the boys and the girls that made up the House over which you presided and we hope and trust that you will have a long and useful life and we promise you now that we will never forget your kindness to us during the session of 1923.

The SPEAKER. Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I suppose there are times when all of us wish we were orators, could adequately express the feelings that we have. Certainly, this is one of the times when I find myself in just that position, for I have no word with which I can express to you my sincere thanks and my deep gratitude for the many favors that you have shown me during the past month, comprising the session which is now rapidly drawing to a close. I appreciate too, more than I can tell you, this beautiful ring; but more than that, more than the diamond, more than the platinum, I do appreciate your good will and your regard. I have a few things that I intended to say on this occasion. I don't remember what they were just now, but there are some things that now come to my mind I want to say to you, and say it with all the sincerity of a parting friend; for while none of us are given to know what the future has in store for us, I feel, and I have a right to feel that within a few moments this session of the Legislature will close, and with that I will have wielded the gavel in the Legislature of the greatest of the Commonwealths, greatest in the diversity of its interests, greatest in its citizenship and all the things that make for good, and with that close comes the parting of those that we have come to love during our association together, and a feeling of sadness is inseparable from this occasion. I would do an injustice if I did not at this time say to you that any success that may have been accomplished at the desk has been brought about, not by the Speaker alone by the assistance that has been given him there by those who are associated with him, and in this connection I want to mention not all, but a few of the names that come to my mind, particularly Mr. James Moore, who stood at my elbow throughout the session. He wouldn't let me go wrong in a parliamentary way if I wanted to. Mr. Alton Lick and Mr. Edward Moore have anticipated all my requirements. The papers have been before me, often before I knew myself that I wanted them. Mr. Garvin and Mr. Burgner and Mr. Meals and all the desk clerks associated with them have worked so well that the team work has been perfect at the desk, and that explains why the work has gone along with as little jarring and as little friction as it has. Again I want to thank you most sincererly for all that you have done for me and for this ring. I wish I could say more, I wish I could express to you just how I feel on this occasion, but I think you understand.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the Chief Clerk, Mr. Garvin.

Mr. GARVIN. Mr. Speaker, I present you with this gavel, or emblem of authority which you have used with justice and equity, or caused and allowed the same to be so done.

The SPEAKER. Mr. Chief Clerk and members of the House, I can't say more or feel more than I have already expressed. I again thank you for the wonderful and the beautiful presents, which I shall pride so long as life shall last.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Golder.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Chairman, members of the House and friends, at the conclusion of all sessions of the Legislature, we have sentiments such as we hold today for the particular purpose of giving to ourselves one real genuine blessing; and at this time, as I look back through the session, there occurs to me many votes by which I am gratified and some which trouble my conscience. I feel that an honest confession is good for the soul and I wish to explain, members of the House, my action on voting for the voting machine bills as I did. Now, I am not opposed to the voting machine, because one of the dearest, most cherished things with which I have ever come into contact is voting machine. But I am opposed to the kind of voting machine that were intended to be forced upon the people of Pennsylvania through the bills which we had before us. Those machines were inadequate; those machines could be fixed; those machines could be purchased. Now, if those machines had been the kind with which you and I have come into actual contact, the kind which you and I met the first day of this session, the smooth—oiled, perfect—working voting machine of this House, Tom Garvin, friend to you all. Tom Garvin is master of the ouija board. Tom Garvin is, to my mind, the acme of all the perfection of a spiritualist. He sits at the desk with his hands streched out, and apparently his mind is far, far away. The roll is called, many are called, but few respond. But ah! my friends, Tom Garvin, at the desk, reashes out into sixty-seven counties of this State, to the members who should be here in their seats, attending to their duties, but who are gone, and yet he knows just how they would vote if they did. There is no man with whom we come into contact who gives more faithful service and yet who takes such genuine delight in discommoding himself, inconveniencing himself, trying to serve and help the membership of this body. And Tom always sits in two positions; either he sits forward in the seance or he sits back and looks into the faces of this House, now what the hell he's laughing about those things for I don't know, but judging by some of the notes he sent down to my colleague, Mr. Baldi, and to the rest of the House, I have a pretty good idea. Tom, the members of this House appreciate more than I can say the many kindnesses received at your hands. We know you are tired; we don't blame you a bit, and so the members of the House, knowing that you live in Sharon Hill, where the voting machine works at its very height, realizing the beatiful home that you have there and the sunny porch surrounding it, would like to picture in their own minds Tom Garvin sitting back on that porch and recalling the pleasant memories of this House. And so they have decided to present to you this reclining chair in the genuine hope it will give as much pleasure in receiving and using it as it has given the members of this House in presenting it to you.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. David J. Jones.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I think in citing my own case, that I might cite the case of a number of other members of the House, when I say that when I came down here the greatest revelation to me was how intensely human the House was. My earliest recollection was that a congress or a senate or a legislative body was made up of superhuman beings, but when I got down here I found that they were just ordonary beings like myself. While we have disagreed on a number of bills, the bigness and the broadness of the members of the House is manifest, when at one moment they are opposed to one another and the next moment linked arm in arm. It shows the bigness and the broadness of them. Now, we have with us as resident clerk one, M. K. Burgner. We are all mighty glad to go to Milt with our troubles, and you know the response that we always get. You know that cheerful smile and that pleasant answer, and Milt, on behalf of the House, we want to say to you that we recognize in you an official, courteous and kind and efficient. And while this little token does not represent the feelings of the House in its intrinsic value, it carries with it a wealth of good fellowship and best wishes and kindest regard for your future success and happiness.

Mr. M. K. BURGNER. I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the House and friends, I feel honored today as being selected to recognize the services of one of our officials of this House. Twenty-eight years ago, or in 1895, there came from Butler County a young attorney, elected from that county to represent their district in this House. He served them well and faithfully and he was re-elected in 1897 and 1899. The knowledge and the experience which he obtained during those years of legislative work trained him for further service in an official capicity relating to the duties of this Legislature, and in 1907 he was the assistant clerk of this House, and in 1909 he became the Journal Clerk of this House. During the session of 1909 an act was passed that created the Legislative Reference Bureau. The Governor, at that time, the Honorable Edwin S. Stuart, selected this experienced man in legislative work as a director to conduct that bureau and organize it. He has been honored by three other governors since his first appointment, having been reappointed by Governor Tener, Governor Brumbaugh and the late Governor Sproul. In all those years, those members who have been attending the sessions of this body when they sought a friend in need and when they needed friendly advice and assistance in preparing their bills, they went to this man for it. He has been again honored, to my knowledge as no other man of Pennsylvania, when a special act was passed during this session, taking the appointment of the office which he now holds from the Governor and making it a regular bureau; and this General Assembly in joint session, honored him during the days of this session as a director of that bureau. He has served us faithfully, he has served us honorably and often when we were in doubt as regards to our work. Now I am speaking only as a layman, not as an attorney, because we haven't had that opportunity to study law and qualify in a position, and know the law as our learned friend has. In people who have come from the ranks of labor and who have only had the educational qualifications of a grammer school, and who have been compelled to leave their schooling in order, at eleven years of age, to help raise a family, those qualifications could not be placed in men of that type who gather here and who have been elected to serve their constituents, as they can in a learned attorney of this body; but when we mingle together and when we want assistance and advice, we go to this very important bureau. And on behalf of the members of this House, to show our apreciation, love and esteem to him, a faithful servant to the members of this House and the people of this Commonwealth, I have the honor to present this small gift as a token of good will, and best wishes for future prosperity to Jim Moore.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Joseph C. Marcus.

Mr. JOSEPH C. MARCUS. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, the preceding speaker and others have told us that in the closing days of this session there is a tinge of sadness, and yet the result of the final days of this Legislature brings us the happiness of the associations that we have formed during this session which makes up for our many disappointments, our trials, and our tribulations; and the success which we have had, or hope to have, is by the cooperation of the men that sit in front of the Speaker. In reference to the one that the House desires to honor at this particular time;—we all love him and respect him by reason of his modesty, his never-tiring efforts to assist us, by a personality that has been rich with fellowship and by an address that has given us the opportunity to meet him on common grounds; and to you, Dale Meals, in behalf of the members of the 1923 session of the House, we desire to present to you at this time this beautiful gift as a token of friendship, as a token of everlasting good will from the members of this House, and we hope and trust when you see it and look at it, it shall bring back to you the happy, fond memories of the session of 1923

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Long.

Mr. LONG. Mr. "Net Profits Tax", ladies and gentlemen, I seem to be like the elevator man, "going up." Prior to yesterday, I was a modest, unassuming and, I hope, reasonable, well-behaved member of this House. Yesterday I was exalted to that high position as a lieutenant of police in the great constabulary of this State. Today you have further boosted me to be a presentation officer to do honor to that golden-throated distributor of words, Mathew Stanley Quay Hewitt, besides whom Demosthenes, if he were alive, would stand tongue-tied and unclasped. Quay, you are a good old scout, but not such, at that, in the strict meaning of the word; and as I look upon your handsome figure striking pompadour and your laughing, devilish eyes, I wonder by what marvelous control those eyes are always focused on the exact center of this House and never, by the slightest glance reach the sidelines, no matter how attractive they may be. It is a far cry from Harrisburg to Punxutawney, and yet we see from there the most implicit confidence that ever was given to mere married man, and I can say that of the twenty or thirty telephone calls which come in here daily, and I have investigated them all, not a single one has ever been in a feminine voice. Quay, old boy, we would stake you up against any many in your position in any state in the Union, in the capital at Washington or in the halls of Parliament and we would back you with every dollar we have to beat him out; and in consideration of the great love and esteem we have for you, I present you this chest of silver, and with it, further, this envelope which contains another token of our appreciation.

Mr. QUAY HEWITT. Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the House, every circus has its clown, and I have tried to serve. I see knives and forks here. I am too poor to eat meat, but I can use the spoons to eat soup at our house. I thank you very kindly for your gift, and, in the words of the poet,

"It is not what you give but what you share,
For the gift without the giver is bare.
He who feeds himself with his alms feeds three,
Himself, his hungry neighbor and me."

I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Rhodes.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, a large number of us have come to this legislative hall this year for the first time. Since we have been here we have created lasting and binding friendships. There may have been some differences of opinion; some of the arguments may have become heated, but I am assured that there is no personal enmity remaining in these closing days of the session. I am sure that we all feel that we have been working here together, working for a common cause, that we all have had the same motive and the same end in view, and I think as we go out, especially those who are new members, we will carry us a most cherished and fond recollection of this session. We will carry with us, I am sure, a recollection which will be everlasting of the friendships and of the acquaintances that we have made here since January of this year. I presume that it is probably true, and more so, relatively, to the new members than the old, that we appreciate the courtesy and the cooperation of the officials of this House. We probably rely upon the officials more than some of the older members for guidance, and I personally can say this, that all of the officials of this House have been most courteous, most desirous of lending assistance, most willing to tell us the ways and means that we desire to ascertain. We also recognize that this House could not operate, that it could not function without the efficiency of the officials of the House, and I am sure that I am voicing the sentiments of all of the members when I say that we have had a most excellent and a most efficient corps of officials from the Speaker on down. We recognize the reading clerks as having a most onerous duty to perform. Their duties are exacting, their duties are difficult and their duties are wearying. On behalf of the members of the House, it gives me great pleasure to recognize the reading clerk, Mr. Martin. As a token of the esteem in which we hold you, as token of our respect for your efficiency and your willingness to cooperate with us, in all details, I have the pleasure and the honor of presenting you with this token of our affection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Gibbon.

Mr. GIBBON. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, we have listened this afternoon to many splended officials. I have been requested to speak of one. I refer to the honorable Davy Thomas. During the session of 1913, as a member, so well did he serve, so faithfully did he represent his constituents that he was re-elected by unamimous vote to the sessions of 1915 and 1917, on both occasions having had the nomination of both parties. In 1921 he was honored by this House by being elected to the position of desk clerk. His affable manner, his pleasing personality and his willingness ever to serve made so deep an impression upon us that at the beginning of this session, we elected him to the position of assistant chief clerk. Davy, this House honors you and respects and loves you, and in behalf of the House, I desire to present you with this envelope. In addition, the boys of the Luzerne delegation, conscious of the kindly advice you have rendered them, which they realize has been enhanced by your wealth of experience, have asked me to present you with this additional gift. If in the next session or the sessions to come the House should see fit to elect you to this position or to any other position within its gift, we are satisfied that you will serve with honor to yourself and fidelity to the State. In behalf of the boys of Luzerne, I desire to present you with this gift.

Mr. DAVID THOMAS. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I want to thank each and every one of you for your kind gift, and assure you I appreciate it from the bottom of my heart. I want to thank the members of Luzerne for their little gift. I shall always try to serve the House as I have tried in the past, with courteous treatment. There is one thing I would like to say at this time: I have been a member, or connected with the House since 1913. There is one thing that the House should be congratulated for, and that is the fact that they gave the women folks a great deal of consideration by elimating the gas ball and the sleeping powder. I want to thank you one and all, again.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman who will close the session, Doctor Hefferman from Philadelphia.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. The Chairman and members of the House, we have a gift here for Mrs. Anna Schaeffer of Allegheny County. The lady has departed to her home, and we will see to it that she receives her gift. It is a wrist watch we have for her.

Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I would like to say at this time that the members of the State Legislature, if there is any one thing that can be said about them, it is that they are kindhearted and liberal. They have not forgotten those to whom they felt they were indebted, nor have ever done so during the session that I have been identified with them, and for proof of this I will call out a number of names and to each person called I will present an envelope containing the wherewithal by which they can secure whatever gift they desire. The page boys have not even been forgotten. As I call the names, I would like the recipients to answer and receive their gifts.

I will first call the Chaplain, Rev. W. B. Cox. Who has been a better friend to this House than Clarence Seiler? He comes and fixes your old broken chairs and renders faithful assistance to you, and there is nobody in the House whom it gives me greater pleasure in honoring then Mr. Seiler. Another good fellow from Germantown,—I think he comes from Germantown,—The Sergeant-at-arms, Frank B. Lamb. Now, will you married men listen to this? "She has taken care of your mail, private and otherwise." The postmistress, Mrs. Anna D. Schoonover. I now call on the custodian of the House, Mr. David Hopkins. The next, the superintendent of store rooms, Mr. Frank D. Bowman. Next is the desk clerk, Mr. R. A. Fowler. The next is one that it gives me extreme pleasure to present a gift to. He didn't hear his name mentioned. I am sure that you will be well acquainted with him, for he has been one faithful little fellow here during the session. I speak of the clerk who has helped to prepare the House History, Mr. S. Edward Moore.

Mr. S. EDWARD MOORE. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I certainly will appreciate this gift and I can't tell you what a pleasure it has been to serve, and I thank you all.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. The next is Mr. George Offenbacher. If the gentleman is present, I would like him to come forward. The next to follow is the Journal Clerk, Mr. Thomas C. Kelly. Now, we have a young lady, Miss Janet Latterman. Also the following young ladies: Miss Margaret Watkins; Mrs. Mary Emerson; Mrs. Justine Cohen.—It is the desire of the House that the ladies make their appearance here and receive their gifts.—R. Beryl Davis; Jacob Grand; Calder M. Rhodes; Carl E. Lucas; Edward Cohen; Gilbert Pick. I would like to announce to you that this contribution will be sent to Mr. Gilbert, who has entered the Navy. The remainder are as follows: Norman P. Fisher; Miss Miriam Doyle; Harry Micholovitz; Theodore Ambrose; Hyman Williams; Benjamin J. Heckert; Andrew Herr; Stephen Bolard; Wilfred Arthur Davis; William F. Keiser, Jr., Israel Forb.

I would like to announce to the Chairman and the ladies and gentlemen that at the ball game for the benefit of the Children's Industrial Home given by the members of the Legislature yesterday afternoon, the contribution to that fund has reached nearly five hundred dollars. Ladies and gentlemen, this ends the presentation session.

The CHAIRMAN. This ends the work of the special session.

SPEAKER GOODNOUGH IN THE CHAIR.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, during the ceremonies which were just held an ommission was made by the committee which is deeply regretted. There were gifts to have been received at the House this afternoon, but unfortunately had not been received, which the committee had intended presenting to two of the most faithful men that have ever done any work in this House. I speak of Benny Locke and Eugene E. Moyer. I have been requested by the committee to announce that in a very few minutes it is hoped the ommission will be remedied. They desire to express publicly at this time the appreciation that they have for the services rendered by those two men, who are the first ones here every day and the last ones to leave, and they work for hours after we have left these halls, and on behalf of the House I desire to thank those me nand hope that will indulge us for a few minutes.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to call the attention of the House to the fact that a number of important bills remain to be acted upon yet, particularly No. 1648; also highway bills and others.

RECESS.

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections, the Chair will declare a recess for one hour, at the expiration of which time time it will be fifteen minutes to 12:00 o'clock, and the Chair desires further to call the attention of the members to the fact that the taxation bills have not been finally acted upon, and a quorum at the expiration of the recess, or more than a quorum will be absolutely necessary. Are there objections? The Chair hears none, and declares a recess until fifteen miutes of twelve.

AFTER RECESS.

The SPEAKER (C. J. Goodnough), in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The time for which the recess was declared having expired, the House will be in order.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1648.

Mr. EDMONDS called up the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1648.

The report as agreed upon was read as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 1648, entitled: "An act imposing an emergency profits tax for State purposes on the net income of certain corporations, joint-stock associations, limited partnerships and companies incorporated, organized or doing business in this Commonwealth, providing for the collection of such tax and prescribing penalties" respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

FRANK E. BALDWIN,
ALBERT DAVIS,
C. W. SONES.
Committee on the part of the Senate.

C. F. ARMSTRONG,
GEO. I. WONER,
FRANKLIN S. EDWARDS,
Committee on the part of the House of Representatives.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the report of the Committee of Conference was adopted.

Ordered, that the Clerk inform the Senate accordnigly.

SENATE MESSAGE.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1112.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced informed that the Senate has insisted upon its amendments, non-concurred in by the House of Representatives, to House Bill No. 1112, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of an act approved the twenty-second day of July Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand and ninety-three) entitled "An Act creating in counties having a population of from eight hundred thousand to one million five hundred thousand a board for the assessment and revision of taxes providing for the appointment of the members of such board by the county commissioners fixing their salaries payable by the county defining the powers and duties of such board and regulating the assessment of property and occupations for State and county purposes authorizing the appointment of subordinate assessors and clerks defining their duties and providing for their compensation payable by such counties imposing a penalty on subordinate assessors for failure to comply with certain provisions of this act and abolishing the office of ward borough and township assessor in so far as respects the assessment of property and occupations for State and county purposes" as amended

And has appointed Messrs. Leslie, Barr and Stites a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives, (if the House of Representatives shall appoint such committee) (already appointed) on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. GOLDER. Do I understand that the bill now called up is a House bill which was amended in the Senate, sent back to the House, in which the House has declined to concur in the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The bill before the House is House Bill 1112. The bill was amended in the Senate was returned to the House for concurrence and the House declined to concur in the amendments of the Senate, and the Senate was so informed. Whereupon they appointed a committee of conference and the bill is now before the House for the appointment of a House conference committee.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. GOLDER. This bill is a House bill which was amended in the Senate, it was returned to us and we declined to concur in the amendments. I rise to the point of order, sir, that in as much as it would not be in order to again have before us the question of concurring in the amendments and that the bill is not properly before the House, that the Senate has no right to take the initative in asking for the appointments of a conference committee on a house bill; that it was within the power of the House to ask for a conference committee at the time we declined to concur in the amendments, and I call the speaker's attention to the ruling on page 1285 as follows: "On a motion to concur in the amendments made by the Senate to a House Bill. The point of order was raised that this motion is out of order because the House has already non-concurred." If the House had desired a conference committee on this bill, it could have moved to that effect at the time it declined to concur in the amendments. The Senate cannot take the initative in asking for a conference committee, the bill therefore is not properly before us.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Golder, is well taken.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Speaker, I understand therefore that the bill is not properly before the House.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION.

Mr. McKIM. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. McKIM. Has the Chair and official knowledge that the Senate has appointed a conference committee?

The SPEAKER. That is the message, that they have appointed a conference committee.

Mr. McKIM. Is the message on the desk now?

The SPEAKER. It is, and was read.

Mr. McKIM. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House non-concur in the amendments made by the Senate and that a conference committee be appointed.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the motion would not be in order at this time because the bill is not before the House.

Mr. McKIM. Mr. Speaker, I move you that the vote by which the Senate amendments to House Bill No. 1112 were non-concurred in be reconsidered.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the bill is not before the House and no action can be taken upon it at this time.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, June 14, 1923.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerk of the Senate and House of Representatives be directed to have a copy of the Journals of the two Houses of this session prepared and placed in the hands of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding within thirty days after the close of the session and the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding is hereby directed to have the said Journals printed, bound and delivered to the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives within ninety days after the receipt of the copy therefor.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly..

JOINT SESSION.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DAVID J. DAVIS IN THE CHAIR.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR DAVIS. The joint session will be in order to hear the address of his Excellency, the Governor.

The SERGEANT-AT-ARMS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to announce the return of the Committee instructed to wait upon his Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, your Committee has performed the duty assigned to it and wishes to introduce his Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DAVIS. I have the honor to introduce the Honorable Gifford Pinchot, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR GIFFORD PINCHOT TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Governor GIFFORD PINCHOT. Members of the General Assembly I could not refrain from giving myself the pleasure of an expression of good will before you finally leave, and therefore I have taken the liberty of delaying your final adjournment for just a moment in this way.

The Legislature of 1923 has had a different problem from any Pennsylvania Legislature of recent years and has dealt with it in a different way. We are told of sessions of General Assembly which have done their work under the control of a boss. This session is not one of them. It has been free from dictation of any sort, either by an individual or by an organization. The General Assembly of 1923 has been its own master.

The methods of cooperation between the Legislature and the Executive have also been new. Heretofore the exchange of a job for a vote has often been a recognized method of procuring legislation. It is to the credit both of the General Assembly and the Administration that not a single case of such barter has taken place. There has not been, to my knowledge, even one instance, during the six months in which you have been in session, of the exchange of a vote for patronage or promise. The legislation you have passed has been passed on its merits. We may well join in mutual congratulation upon that fact.

Moreover, I believe the contact between the Legislative and Executive branches during this session has been unusually close. Over and over again I was urged to appoint floor leaders through whom the wishes of the Administration could be made known to the members of either House. I declined for it seemed to me then, and it seems to me now, far wiser to interpose no such screen between the Governor and the members of the General Assembly.

There were three main planks in my platform, during both Primary and General elections. They were:

To drive the saloons out of Pennsylvania; to keep the expenses of the State within its income; and to recognize the State government of Pennsylvania so as to get a dollar's worth of service for every dollar spent.

All three promises have been honored to date. As this session of the General Assembly comes to an end, there is no longer a licensed saloon in this Commonwealth.

A Budget system has been enacted into law, and effective provision has been made for wiping out our debts and keeping the expenses of the State within its income. Additional tax laws, self-repealing in two years, have gone far to provide the essential funds for maintaining our schools, but have not exacted from the taxpayer an unnecessary dollar. The Assembly had no more difficult problem to deal with than this.

The Administrative Code has been passed, and the way is open for such complete reorganization of the State government in the interests of economy and efficiency as will give the taxpayers of Pennsylvania their full and honest money's worth.

These are the three great achievements which fulfill the principal planks of the Republican platform of the last campaign. They represent Republican contributions to the welfare of Pennsylvania. It would be unfair, however, not to recognize the assistance of the Democratic minority in the passage of the Enforcement Law and the enactment of certain other Administration measures. I do so with real pleasure.

A multitude of other constructive enactments by this Legislature deserve attention, only a few of which can be mentioned. Among these are improvements in the School Code which remove all uncertainty as to the amounts which the State should contribute each biennium to the common schools, and which notably and justly increase the assistance given by the State to the poorer school districts.

Provision has been made for a Giant Power survey, through which plans for the intelligent development and use of all Pennsylvania's sources of mechanical energy will be prepared for submission to the next Legislature. It is a project of the first importance to the commercial, industrial, and agricultural interests of Pennsylvania.

New laws have brought the water power policy of this Commonwealth into harmony with the National Government and the best modern practice, and will powerfully stimulate the development and use of our streams.

The proposed Constitutional Amendment to authorize the expenditure of $25,000,000 for purchasing land for forest purposes has passed this Legislature for the first time. If it is successful it will go further than any other single measure to eliminate the greatest danger which threatens the future welfare of Pennsylvania, namely; a shortage of the timber without which this Commonwealth cannot do business nor enjoy prosperity.

Another Constitutional Amendment for a second fifty millions of road bonds has been passed for the second time, and we have strong hope that it may be submitted to the people next fall and approved by them.

The foundation has been laid for an entire reconstruction of the antiquated prison system of Pennsylvania, under which our penitentiaries have become training schools for criminals, and its gradual replacement by a system which will make them into training schools for useful citizens.

The passage of the Old Age Pension Law, increased appropriations to Mothers' Pensions, the new Game Code, provision for the Delaware River Bridge, and other constructive legislation too numerous to mention must be passed over. It is only fair to say, moreover, that this Legislature has enacted far less laws than usual, which in itself is good, and that these laws on the average are of a far higher calibre.

It would be useless to pretend that the Administration has succeeded in securing everything it needed. It has not. The supplemental enforcement bills were killed, so were the bills to standardize the hospitals, and so were others. But the greater things for which I asked the Legislature has granted. I can congratulate you with a whole heart on your achievements. The record of constructive legislation enacted by the General Assembly of 1923 has seldom, if ever, been equalled or surpassed.

In conclusion I desire to say that my own work with you has been exceedingly pleasant, that I count today many friends who six months ago were mere acquaintances, and that from beginning to end I have greatly enjoyed my association with the General Assembly of 1923.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR DAVIS. The purpose for which the joint assembly was called into joint session having been accomplished, the meeting will now stand adjourned.

The members of the Senate will please reconvene in the Senate Chamber for the purpose of transacting such unfinished business as the Senate has on hand.

SPEAKER C. J. GOODNOUGH IN THE CHAIR.
